Do you know, Mr. Interested Observer, that the pages you have just thumbed through contain a little more than the pictures and copy upon them? They pulsate, they record, they amuse. They are crowded with scholarship winners, achievements. They denote skill, spirit, democracy. They speak of three German exchange students, of a student body that can rise triumphant from defeat. They portray humorous aspects, serious responsibilities, day-after-day routine that somehow was delightful. They present the classrooms, the office, the buildings as more than the structural, modern beauty behind them; they depict them as the tool of a student, a tool that will model, construct, mend a pattern of a successful future. These pages individualize, they communicate, but most of all these pages never tire of suggesting that "This is Shawnee-Mission. Here it is, our school."

Dearest Janie,
I am sitting here watching Paul tickle you. I am reminded of all the fun I had teasing you about passion. Take care of Paul's affection please.
Stay as innocent as you try to make us believe.

"DID YOU hear? Cliff won!" echoed through the halls a sultry April 21. Reassurance came when Mr. Welch's voice sounded over the loud speaker: "I wish to announce that Cliff Thompson has just taken first place in the national oratorical contest at Baton Rouge, Louisiana." To compete, Cliff won the district, the four-state, and the twelve-state regional contests. First place, a four-thousand dollar scholarship to any college, 320,000 contestants!

Winning the contest capped Cliff's high school years of debating, conducting assemblies, of writing sports copy for the INDIAN. During the "summer of the flood," Cliff served as governor at Boys' State, was elected as delegate to Boys' Nation, then traveled to Washington to be addressed as "Mr. President."

MERIT PROVED DAILY

Having met stringent requirements, fifty-two vocational agriculture students became members of the Shawnee-Mission Chapter of the FFA, under the sponsorship of Mr. H. D. Garver, advisor. A GOLD MEDAL AWARD, Repairing and building farm equipment and producing pork, beef, mutton, milk, poultry, eggs, corn, and oats were the highly successful supervised-farming projects. Co-operatively, they conducted four concessions, served at national FFA headquarters, managed a charity drive, and built a portable farm shop. The chapter performed many community services and cleared a total of $687.50 in all money-raising activities during the year. Speakers from France, England, Switzerland, and Hawaii were heard in the monthly night meetings, which stressed the international theme. Activities such as square dancing, a weekly "Fun Night," and parties kept spirits high.

FUTURE FARMERS WIN

THE GOLD EMBLEM award for the National Better Chapter Contest again was won by the Shawnee-Mission Chapter of the Future Farmers of America. The highest award a FFA chapter may receive, this recognition is based on the accomplishments of all active chapter members throughout the entire contest year. The Gold Emblem rating is treasured because it is given to only thirty-eight of the nearly eight thousand local chapters. One step below their national achievement is the chapter's state rating—the highest in all but three of its twenty-three years' history. Public-speaking contests, judging-team participation, and leadership school management afforded valuable training.

MASTER HAND SKILLS

The club was open to experienced handworkers completing projects such as suits or crocheted scarves, as well as to beginners using needles to make Afghan squares. The only requirement for membership was interest in furthering one's skill in needlework. Group officers were Jan Turton and Nancy Smith, presidents; Ida Mae Staley and Joanne Pope, vice-presidents; Mary Cain, secretary-treasurer; Jane Ware, secretary; and Sue Ann Miller, treasurer.

THE JUNIOR and senior division was composed of twenty-five boys and twenty-five girls, who elected Bob Cullins, president; Jerry Perry, vice-president; Jerry Callaghan, secretary; and Lucy Roberts, treasurer. All members were experienced dancers and enjoyed learning new dances and "brushing up" on ones previously enjoyed. Knowing how to square dance has become the "vogue." Membership in the Beginners Club was limited, therefore, to the first fifty students who signed. Officers were Duane Anderson, president; Jim Cook, vice-president; Trammell Roberts, secretary; and Phyllis Roeckers, treasurer. Mrs. Sophia Hodshire, head sponsor, was assisted by Mr. L. Dale Pigg.

"GRAND RIGHT and left" might have been the call that greeted one as he walked into the girls' gym when the Square Dance Club was meeting. Because there were many that sought membership in this club, it was divided into three groups, according to classes and dancing experience. The purpose of all these clubs is to create a greater interest in square dancing. Old dances were reviewed, and new ones were learned at meetings. Experienced dancers in the freshman and sophomore group elected John Burke, president; Mike Sullivan, vice-president; Glee McAuley, secretary; and Larry Pigg, treasurer.

The organization elected to office John Foster, president; Betty Watson, vice-president; Patty Worcester, secretary; and Barbara Pering, treasurer.

Perfection through practice occupied the minds and time of all orchestra members as April fourth, the day of the District Music Festival at Lawrence, drew near. Long hours were spent on "King of Yvetot," one of their contest numbers. After the state contest came another performance in the orchestra's endless list of demands, playing for graduation. As the year drew to a close, Mr. George and his willing colleagues could look back with satisfaction upon another successful season.

THE FIFTY-TWO MEMBERS OF THE ORCHESTRA

Riding a bicycle-built-for-two, Elaine Stiner, an old-fashioned Southern belle, gets a lift from the boys' quartet as the orchestra plays an appropriate melody during the assembly concert.

TO PERSONS of little or no talent, fingering musty music, tuning stubborn instruments, and practicing long hours to accomplish perfection, would seem a tedious task. Nevertheless, the fifty-five members of the orchestra proved themselves worthy of being called musicians and made Shawnee-Mission proud of them.

Under the direction of Harold E. George, the group gave Christmas and spring concerts and played in exchange assemblies. The Cavalcade, always an outstanding event, was made even more successful by the orchestra's participation. Music appreciation in the district's grade schools was promoted by the orchestra's many performances in the schools.

ENTERPRISING "B" BAND PLAYS AT HOME GAMES

IN PREPARATION for service in the larger band, fifty members of the "B" band "practiced to make perfect." This group was composed largely of freshmen and sophomores who lacked the experience necessary for a chair in the "A" band. Some of the members, however, were in this division because their particular section in the advanced band was complete. The "B" band played at approximately half of the home basketball games and for several of the football games. The weather interfered with some of the group's scheduled activities and caused cancellation of plans. Marching in the Christmas parade sponsored by the Mission Chamber of Commerce was one such occasion. Playing for pep assemblies was a duty that was alternated with the advanced band. Officers of this group were Phil Rankin, president; Lee Jordan, vice-president; Loretta Gray, secretary; and Larry Pering, treasurer. Mr. Harold E. George, instrumental music instructor, directed this group.

Cornetists Betty Lou Watson, John Foster, and Barbara Pering supplied the large amounts of breath needed to play the spirited numbers arranged by the cornet trio for assemblies and the contest.

Constantly practicing under the direction of Mr. George, the band members achieve tune and timing for which they strive.

Entertaining the football spectators with music and marching maneuvers was another of the band's activities. At home basketball games the "A" band alternated with the "B" band for the privilege of playing. Serving as officers of the band were Don Williams, president; Willmar Koehler, vice-president; Lucele Schmitz, secretary; and Jim Adam, treasurer. These officers and those of the orchestra sponsored the Cavalcade, an annual musical variety show. During the marching season the band was led by the head majorette, Gerry Hansen. She was assisted by Lucy Roberts, senior, and Mary Alice James and Dorothy Trimble, sophomores.

HAVING a record enrollment of one hundred and three members, the 1951-52 Shawnee-Mission "A" band, under the direction of Harold George, provided good music for the student body. In addition to performances at S-M, the band participated in many extra-curricular activities. K-U Band Day at Lawrence proved to be one of the highlights of the year. Traveling to Topeka for the Shawnee-Mission - Topeka game and playing at the Armistice Day parade were other main events. Concert-playing ability was shown at the district music festival. The "A" band presented an assembly for S-M students and traveled to Lawrence for an exchange assembly. This year's band was especially proud of its new uniforms.

A CAPPELLA CHOIR

THE MIXED voices of the members of the A Cappella Choir might have been heard during the first hour as they rose in harmony while singing "Alleluia" or "Black is the Color of My True Love's Hair," two of the choir's favorites. Each member was required to have one or more music credits before being enrolled in the choir. Special emphasis was placed on technique study and pronunciation by Mr. J. Rose, instructor. The choir, as a highly specialized vocal group, sang many places—on the Plaza at Christmas, in assemblies, in concerts, and at the contest.

When novelty numbers were in demand, the boys' quartet answered the call. Paul Burke, Tom Willis, Bob Frykholm, and Bob Bush put their heads together and came up with such songs as "Bicycle Built for Two."

A newcomer in the Shawnee-Mission vocal music department was the Boys' Glee Club. The two-year old group boasted of thirty-five members and made its debut in a school assembly and sang at the yearly concerts.

THEIR TALENT, PRACTICE, AND SHOWMANSHIP

EIGHTY-SEVEN musically alert girls raised their voices to form the music department's largest organization, the Girls' Glee Club. The freshmen and advanced Girls' Glee Clubs worked hand in hand in preparing concerts and programs. Organized for background training, the freshmen worked on the same numbers as did the advanced group.

Outstanding voices, selected by Mr. Jesse Rose, vocal music instructor, were chosen from the music classes to form the vocal ensemble. The group of thirty was often in demand for participation in outside activities. Practices were held after school, and the ensemble members showed versatility in perfecting numbers in the short time allotted them. The ensemble sang in an exchange assembly in Topeka, in the spring concert, and at various churches in the surrounding area.

Traditional in the music department is the girls' trio. The triple talents were Marilyn Callaway, Sandra Keller, and Joan Preston. At the Cavalcade, at music club meetings, and at the district contest, the girls sang specialty numbers, among which was "Blue Moon."

MIX WORK WITH PLAY

EACH SECOND and fourth Wednesday, the halls echoed with the blended voices of the one hundred thirty enthusiastic musicians in the Choral Club. Anyone with a yen to sing might join in the fun. Instruction as well as recreation was its goal.

Owners of eight sturdy sets of musical vocal chords, boys from all classes in Shawnee-Mission harmonized to form the boys' double quartet. The boys combining their talents were Bob Frykholm, Bob Bush, Bill Finkemeier, Terry Roark, Paul Burke, Jim Foster, Tom Willis, and Castle Thompson.

A popular ensemble in school activity was the girls' double trio. The girls, June Bueker, Darlene Joy, Lavon Howland, Pati Ensminger, Vicki Smith, and Lynne Young, sang in the Cavalcade and at numerous teas.

VOCATION AND HOBBY

NOT TO BE outdone by the upperclassmen, the freshmen and sophomores combined their talents and formed a club of their own. Nevertheless, the two organizations were identical in operation and had as their purpose . . . creating an interest in art as a vocation or hobby. Increased interest in art was shown by the total membership of one hundred for both clubs.

Dear Joanne, It doesn't seem possible $\frac{3}{4}$ of our high school is over. It's been bad & good, we've had it easy & hard, smooth & rough joy & sorrow, all these feelings & many more have come on us. Since I writing this later in the summer (June 28) I wondered the other night, if had it all to do over - would I make all the mistakes I have made then, knowingly, I said answered myself - honestly - "yes, & probably more!" Our junior year has definitely been our very best - you're being Auto Show & meeting Paul and my going with Lee and to top it all - the Prom! Finals finally over, receiving those last grade cards - and the the long awaited annuals which we almost didn't get! You taking Amer. history and my working at Starlight Theater office downtown. I hope you have a wonderful "Seventeenth Summer" - (good book)

And I hope we have a wonderful life ahead - through our senior year, college, a job or career into life later on. We'll always be good friends like our folks have been and I want to always be able to be as close to you as we have been these last 3 or 4 years since you came back from California. I thank God for the beautiful blessing of friendships - both with boys & girls! May our friendship always be as close as God intended it to be.

I'll love you deeply, always,

AVIATION CLUB KEEPS PACE WITH PROGRESS

DISCUSSIONS on airplanes and aeronautical information tended to keep the thirty members of the Aviation Club in step with the changing aspects of flying. This club, the purpose of which is to give a better understanding of aviation to its members, helped boys to develop ideas for future careers in the aviation field. Several members were skilled pilots and flew for their own enjoyment. Model planes were made and contests were held. Educational films were also enjoyed at meetings. Membership was extended to any boy interested in the field of aviation. Ronnie Madden was elected president; Roger Roark, vice-president; George Jennings, secretary; and Richard Jennings, treasurer. Mr. Gorsage was the sponsor of the club.

Colonel Claire and Bill Strong, officers of the Science Club, employ two rheostats in an electrical resistance experiment.

DESCENDING from learned discussions on atomic energy to elementary demonstrations of air pressure, the members of the Science Club sought a greater understanding of the world about them. The capable officers were Bill Strong, president; Colonel Clair, vice-president; and Bill Heuermann, secretary-treasurer. Striving to increase the interest of students in science, Mr. Allison sponsored the club.

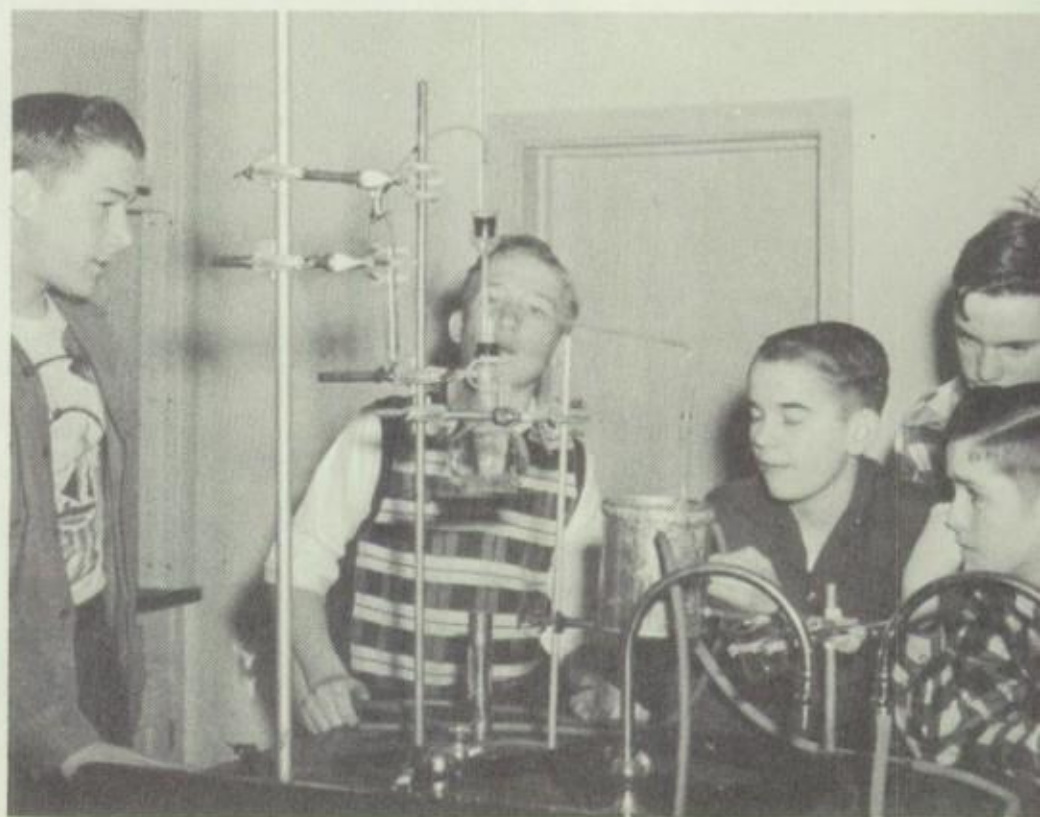

A MAZE of figures filled the blackboard in Mr. Unruh's room when the Advanced Math Club got together. Members could be seen trying to solve baffling problems. The purpose of this club was to study mathematics not offered at S-M. Each member planned the program for one meeting. Methods of symbolic logic, probability, and determinates were among the studied topics. The officers were Peter Arrowsmith, president; Coles Kriekhaus, vice-president; and Harold Smith, secretary-treasurer.

The thirty-three members elected Ronnie Madden, president; Caley Adams, vice-president; Richard Wilson, secretary; and Jim Franklin, treasurer. Mr. Strong served as sponsor for the group's activities.

SCRIBBLER'S CLUB

E. Paul Amos Funeral Home, 10901 Johnson Drive, Shawnee, He. 2116

DO YOU want to be a writer? This question was answered in the affirmative by each member of the Scribbler's Club. Directed by Mrs. Leona Goodwin, the literary ambitions of the members were pyramided into reality, as they took advantage of essay and poetry contests.

Striving to improve their writing ability through studying the works of noted authors, Scribblers discuss DeMaupassant's style.

Safe-driving essay contest winners meet to exchange their views on a currently "hot" topic, which shows no signs of cooling down.

IDENTIFYING and trading rocks were enjoyed by twenty-five members of the Rockhounds Club. In order to promote further interest in geology, the group went on two field trips. The officers of the group were George Edwards, president; Gregory Conrad, vice-president; Dean Beacraft, secretary; and Marcia Hesler, treasurer.

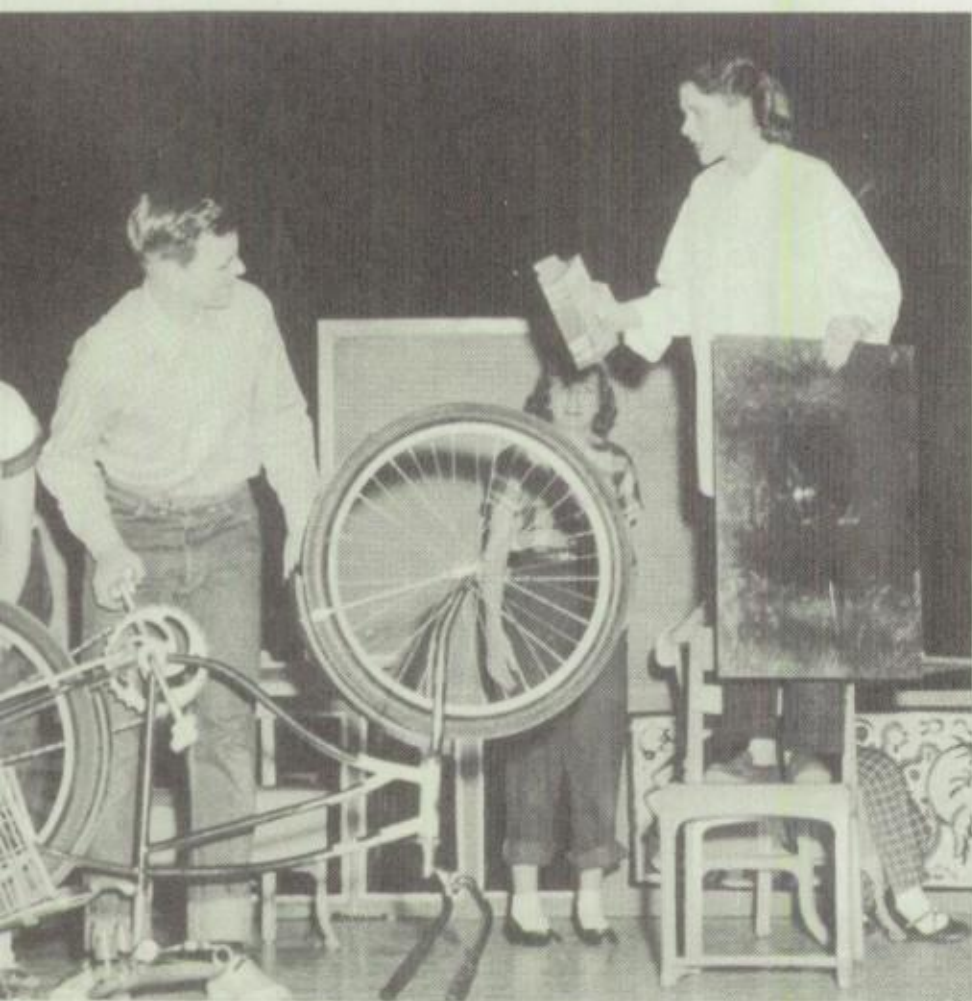

VARIETY was the spice for every Spelling Club program as a different member used his individual ideas for each meeting under the direction of Miss Edna Hetzel, sponsor. Serving as officers were Nina Logan, president; Alice Burris, vice-president; and Della Stewart, secretary-treasurer.

In a scene from "Our Miss Brooks" Rosanne Greenwood is giving Duke Howze and Ruth Keth instructions about making a snowstorm.

BEWILDERING the school principal, antagonizing other faculty members, and creating havoc with her students and the school board members, Miss Brooks, a typical English teacher, attempts to produce "Lost Horizon," the school play, and favorably impress the basketball coach, Hugo Longacre. Endeavoring to produce the play despite athletic competition, band practice, and endless bedlam, the harried teacher runs up against seemingly insurmountable obstacles before achieving success on opening night. When the curtain rises, scenery is placed, actors are ready, and Miss Brooks can enjoy Act I, scene I: the lamasary of Shangri-La.

MISS BROOKS SNARES LOVE WITH PLAY HIT

Best wishes and lots of luck to a wonderful girl.

"Our Miss Brooks" inspires dramatic talent from Paul Culp and Duke Howze. Gestures are emphatic; facial expressions, expectant.

"LOST HORIZON" IS THESPIAN PLAY

After the play, High Llama Fred Horne loosens his collar while the recent "inhabitants" of Shangri-la reassume their true personalities.

"It's a cigar!" says the surprised Paul Culp to Maxine Scott, as Janet Severin pauses under the watchful eyes of a Buddha.

MAGIC carpets carried one to Shangri-La, mysterious mountain city of Tibet, when James Hilton's intriguing story, "Lost Horizon," was staged by the Thespians. The weird tale concerned the arrival of an American, two Englishmen, and a missionary at a lamasery, where an elderly Chinese and the High Lama befriended them. In the "Valley of the Blue Moon" the travelers find the peace brought by an almost eternal existence.

Lining up for a final curtain call are the cast members of the Thespian fall production, "Lost Horizon." C. Sell, P. Thies, P. Shields, P. Adams, A. Selves, director, R. Meyers, M. Scott, P. Culp, J. Tighe, J. Barry, E. J. Bywaters, F. Horne, D. Schultz, J. Severin, D. Smith, J. Ryan, S. Robb.

Rare times are in store for the Thespians, as evidenced by the expressions of the officers: Don Smith, Gary Cottle, Don Schultz, Geneva White, and Dolores Walrod, who are just emerging from a planning session for the year's plays.

The newly-inducted Thespians appear somewhat dazed as they assemble in the library for refreshments after their initiation.

THE DISTANT land of Shangri-La contrasted sharply with the trials of a witty American school teacher, as S-M's Troupe 413 of the National Thespian Society first staged the æsthetic "Lost Horizon," followed by the down-to-earth "Our Miss Brooks." Both winter and spring initiations of the players were candlelight ceremonies led by Gary Cottle, president; Dolores Walrod, vice-president; Geneva White, secretary; and Don Schultz, treasurer. On duty behind the scenes as director was Miss Ruth Browne.

THESPIANS DRAW SPOTLIGHT

So effectively did Shawnee-Mission's Thespians portray other persons that make-believe characters became real before our eyes.

UNMINDFUL of grease paint, which they had failed to remove completely after a make-up demonstration, some Drama Club members hurried to their fifth hour classes. ROMAN TOGAS, long tables of food, reclining couches . . . these characterized the Latin Club's banquet held in the early spring. The purpose of this organization, to promote a greater interest in Roman life and customs, was furthered by a trip to the Nelson Art Gallery. As they read Latin plays and gave reports on Roman life, the thirty members were sponsored by Mrs. Gibson.

Admiring the Roman displays on Mrs. Gibson's bulletin board are David Kerr, Laura Lyon, Lance Wildermood, and Paul Kent, officers.

KEEPING posted on modern fiction and evaluating more classical works, the Book Club offered an opportunity for wider reading of better books. Twenty-seven members discussed literary works under Mrs. Wilma White's direction, in addition to hearing outside reviewers.

Dispensing readily of business, officers Alice Owens, Don Smith, Janice Shenk, and Monna Rae Stough call for today's book review.

"WHICH FILE cards are for authors, and which are for titles?" Answers to this question and others were discussed by the forty members of the Library Club. Helping plan for book reviews, library projects, and parties, Miss Thomas was assisted by Jane Hornaman, president; Virginia Delp, vice-president; Nancy Hurt, secretary; and Mary Ryan, treasurer.

Books ranging from My Cousin Rachel to The Way of All Flesh were discussed and orally reviewed during Library Club meetings.

HAMLET mourned his sorrows and King Lear ruled again, when the Shakespearean Club met to read the works of the bard of Avon under the direction of A. W. Selves. Seventeen members, headed by Carol Read, president; Berny Engel, vice-president; and Joan Sargeant, secretary-treasurer, explored the scope of Shakespeare's writing through membership in the new organization.

The comedy, "As You Like It," attracts Shakespearean devotees.

Berny Engel, Donna Amis, Dana Springer, and Asher Langworthy, officers of the French Club, look at the map of "La Belle France."

The club's activities, however, were not all fun and no work. Led by Asher Langworthy, president; Dana Springer, vice-president; Donna Amis, secretary; and Berny Engel, treasurer, the vigorous club members wrote script, made costumes, and painted sets for a unique presentation in the French Assembly. The assembly had as its theme, "An American in Paris," with John Barry acting as narrator. The search for the real Paris, the city of genuine Frenchmen and their habitats, and not the tourist-made garden spots, was enacted in four scenes. Scene one, from the Folies Bergeres, was explained as being for the benefit of the tourists only; scene two was the Luxembourg gardens near the University of Paris, where Sorbonne students gather to study. The third scene, located by the Mediterranean, was highlighted by Richard Arnold's portrayal of Danny Kaye; and the finale, including the entire cast, was climaxed by the singing of the French national anthem. The French theme, moreover, was chosen for the 1952 "Cavalcade," which indicated the popularity of French study at S-M.

FRANCE, HER PEOPLE

"PARLEZ-VOUS francais?" If you could answer that question in the affirmative, you would more than likely have belonged to the ever-expanding and ever-active French Club. A comparative newcomer in Shawnee-Mission club activities, this four-year-old organization attracted much attention to its lively program of events.

Mrs. Marguerite Crain, sponsor of the club, added her energies to those of the French enthusiasts in attaining their goal of "promoting France and the French people."

Adding a colorful atmosphere to school life, the fifty-three members breezed through the academic year. Well remembered by the entire student body was the singing of French Christmas carols by the "Frenchmen," as they paraded through the halls on Alumnae Day. Other club events were a Christmas party with a skating session and all the trimmings, a spring picnic, French movies, and the departmental assembly. "Never a dull moment" seemed to be the unanimous password.

"GOOD WILL" POLICY

HOLA! Candy, nuts, and chewing gum showered upon the Advanced Spanish Club after the breaking of the pinata at the annual Christmas party. The program was only one of the numerous interesting ones presented in "Los Charrochinas." Other meetings featured games, group singing, student-plays, book reports, and talks about Latin American countries—all promoting interest in Spanish-speaking countries. Highlights of the year were a chili supper and movie combination, held with the first year club, and a dinner at Margarita's on the Plaza. Tom Moore, president; Lois DePetre, vice-president; Virginia Duncan, secretary; and Sondra Phillips, treasurer, co-operated with sponsor L. Dale Pigg to plan special features. Concession management and caroling in the halls at Christmas time were activities planned by the executive committee.

SPANISH CLUBS SPREAD

Dancing a lively fandango are Beginning Spanish Club officers.

COLORFUL films and slides about the Latin American countries supplied the enlightening entertainment for the second year of the Spanish I Club's operation. Quizzes and games, such as "Bingo," were combined with group singing, plays, book reports, and talks by outside speakers to further the theme of knowing our neighbor nations better. On Alumnae Day, just before the Christmas holidays, the members' voices blended with those of the second and third year club to serenade classes in Spanish. A dinner at Margarita's was an outstanding feature for the fifty-five members. Planning bi-weekly programs and special activities contributed to the duties of the cabinet members: Jack Phillips, president; Barbara Hauck, vice-president; Jo Ann Benton, secretary; and Craig Driscoll, treasurer. L. Dale Pigg served as sponsor for this enthusiastic group.

DRESSING dolls for Kansas City orphans, making droop-eared bunnies, and helping to make a local family's Christmas brighter through gifts of clothing, food, and novelties, the Y-Teens, four hundred and eighty-six members strong, lived up to their motto, "To face life squarely." Speakers, movies on safety and international affairs, and "The Red Lamp," a two-act play given by the junior drama group, were among the programs presented in monthly meetings. The Valentine's party, a November district conference, and the Mother-Daughter tea, featuring officer installation, were all strongly supported. Division into small groups for alternating meetings gave members an opportunity to learn more about the field in which they were interested—drama, art, music, program planning, service, recreation, or social. Cabinet members—Judy Fincke, president; Pat Thies, vice-president; Sandra Keller, secretary-treasurer; Florence Nelson, program chairman; Carole Logan, social; Joyce Carver, devotional; Alice Hayward, service; Ellen Jane Bywaters, recreation; and Joyce Tighe, music—met with sponsor Mrs. Mardelle McMichael to plan for the state's largest Y-Teen chapter and Shawnee-Mission's largest girls' club.

THROUGH CONFERENCES

"TO CREATE, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character" is the purpose of the Hi-Y. Membership was extended to any Shawnee-Mission boy, and two-hundred-fifteen students responded. The goal, "clean speech, clean living, clean scholarship, and clean athletics," remained foremost in all activities.

Twenty-six boys, together with Mr. Redpath, attended the regional Ottawa conference. The conference theme was "Every man's occupation, a Christian calling." The model legislature held in Topeka was attended by several boys, who gained experience in committee participation. Others attended the district officers' meeting.

The club was divided into chapters, each of which had its own officers who were members of the cabinet. Officers serving the entire group were Scott Hayden, president; Bernell Hiskey, vice-president; Paul Kent, secretary; David Kerr, treasurer; and Bart Gage, devotional chairman. Profits from the sale of Hi-Y pencils helped to finance the club's activities. Sponsorship of the safe driving essay contest was another project, in which Scott Hayden placed first.

Mr. Redpath, head sponsor of the club, was assisted by Mr. Doxon, Mr. Hause, Mr. Hemphill, Mr. Saunders, Mr. Scharff, Mr. Selves, and Mr. Strong.

RED CROSS CHAPTERS GIVE HOSPITALS AID

HELPING others through co-operation with hospitals was the purpose of the Junior Red Cross. Seventy members, divided into three groups, dedicated themselves to this task. Groups sponsored by Miss Pauline Simcox and Mrs. John Cross devoted time to making bandages for KU Medical Center and assembling materials for the Red Cross drive. Representatives attended the training course held at Unity Farm. Howard V. Patterson's group built woodworking projects, which were sent to Wadsworth Hospital in Leavenworth.

INNER CIRCLE OFFERS SPIRITUAL MESSAGES

EVANGELISTS bringing messages about spiritual sides of daily life were outstanding features on the Inner Circle programs. The group, averaging sixty-five to seventy members, was sponsored in its tenth year by M. E. Alleman. During morning meetings, interdenominational topics were discussed, student talks were given, and occasionally movies connected with the "Youth for Christ" movement were shown. After attending a fall clinic, group members represented Shawnee-Mission at a spring conference and in both regional and international summer camps in the Midwest. The responsibilities for managing official business were assumed by Norman McCue, president; Ruth Ramsey, vice-president; Connie Shenk, secretary and pianist; Loretta Gray, treasurer; and Bob More, librarian.

FACES OF N.H.S. INITIATES RADIATE HAPPINESS

THE THRILL of expectation and the unbelieving expressions on the faces of newly elected members are two characteristics that always accompany the National Honor Society assembly. Membership in the organization is the highest award that can be given by Shawnee-Mission and the most thrilling experience in any high school student's life.

To qualify for election to the Society, a student must be outstanding in scholarship, leadership, character, and service. Sponsors are Miss Velma Seaton and Mrs. Lenell Slaten, who supervised the traditional parent-member tea. Officers were Bob Crisler, president; John Swartz, vice-president; Sandra Keller, secretary; and Mary Lawrence, treasurer.

ORGANIZ

Now, Mr. Interested Observer, you have sized up S-M's football and basketball teams, its cindermen, and its tennis and golf players.

You have seen statistics that leave no doubt in your mind as to the athletic ability of the boys who were champions in the field of sports.

But do not pause with sports. Coming up is a complete section of organizations—an important factor in the life of a Shawnee-Missionite.

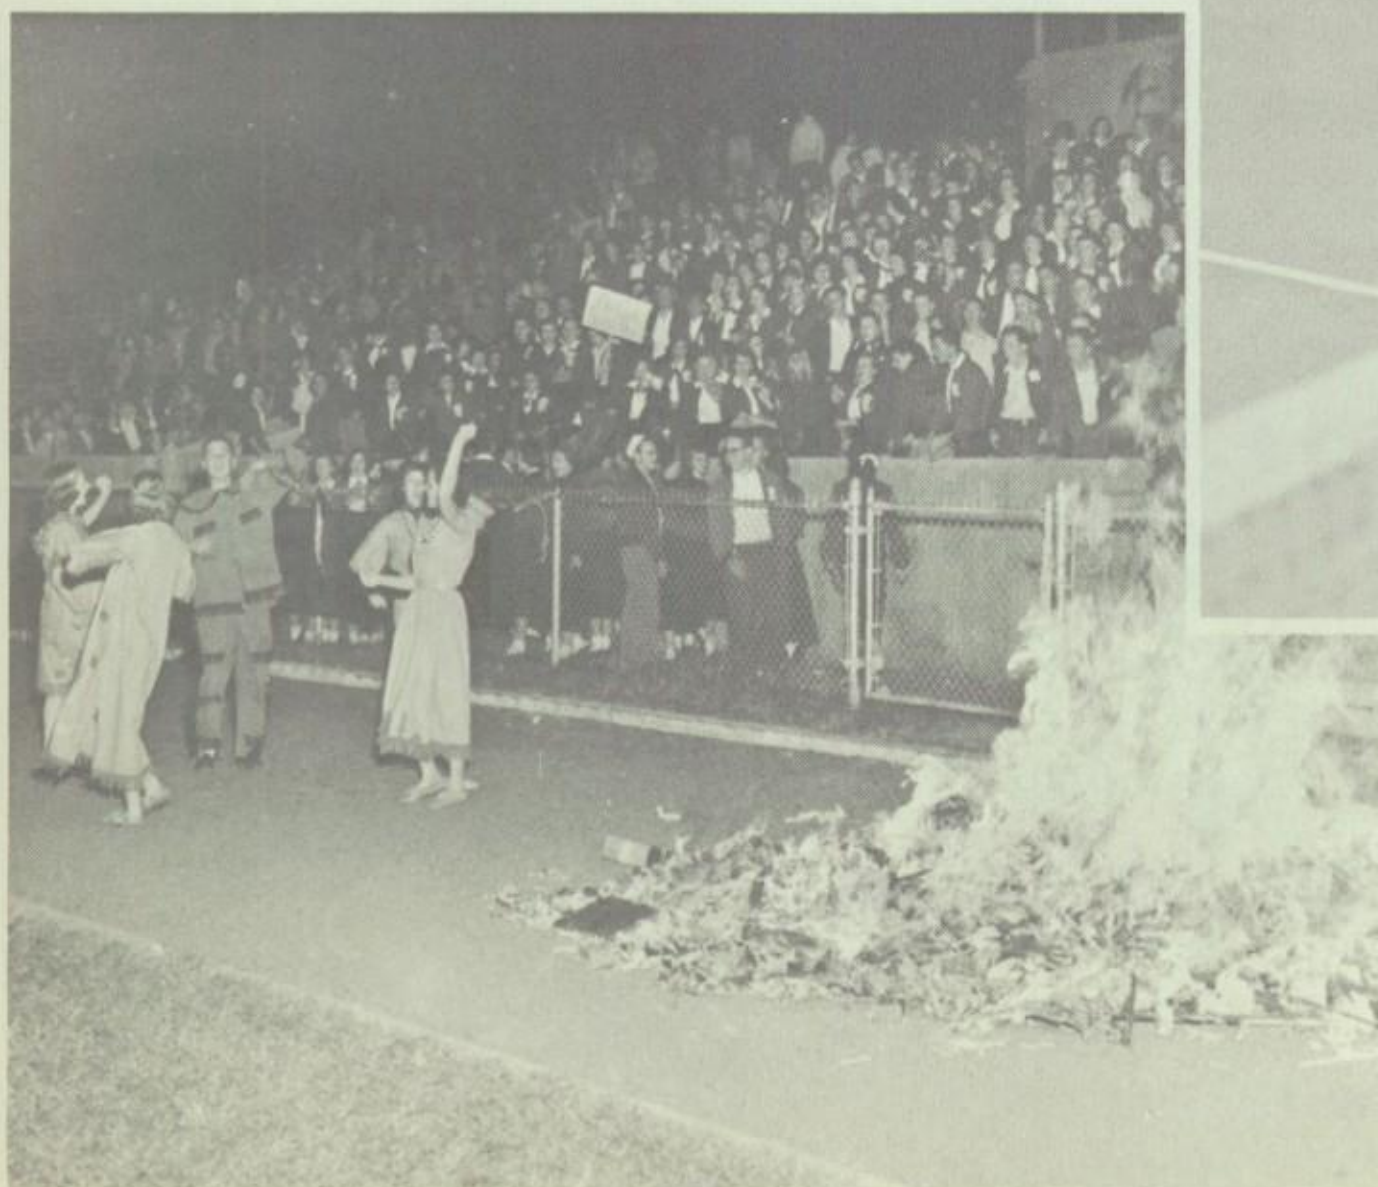

HERE ARE OUR

Early fall sunlight beats down on the S-M pepsters and cheerleaders, for they have taken advantage of the warm weather to hold their assembly in the stadium.

Tribal dress, war paint, and a real papoose complete an INDIAN powwow.

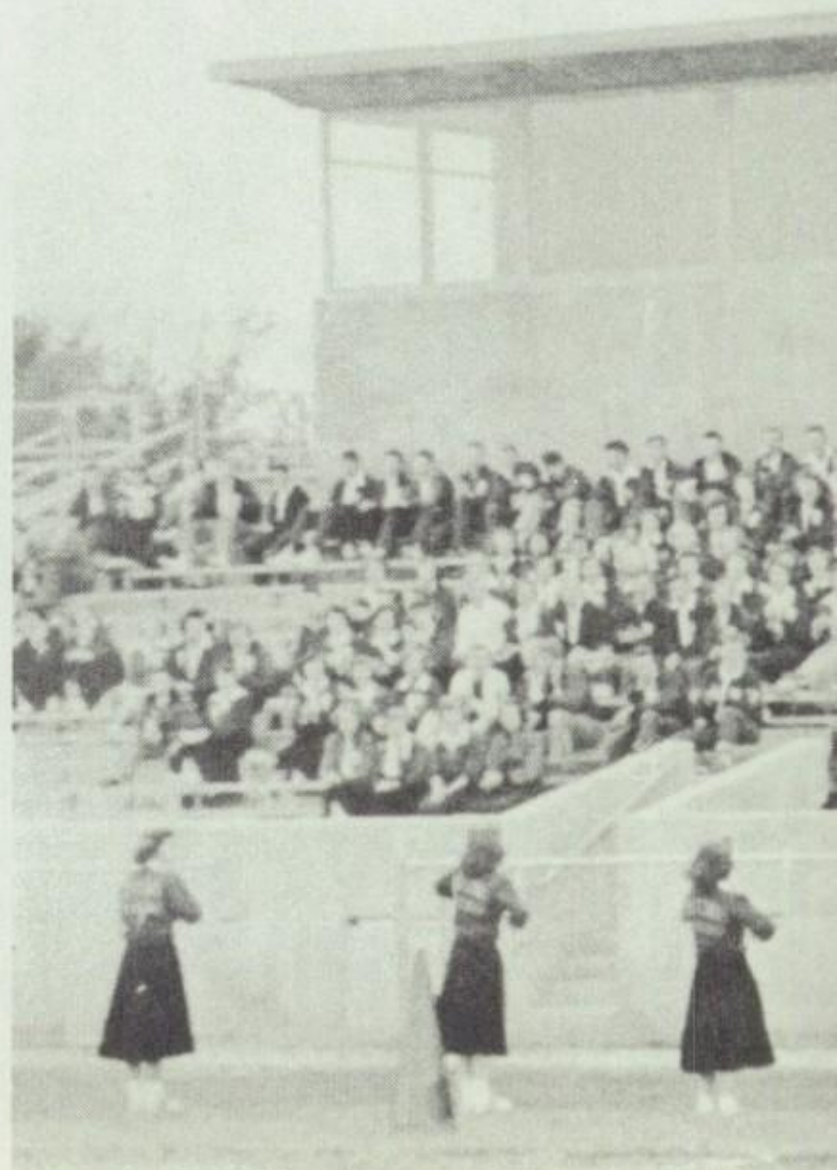

Acting as a guiding hand behind Pep Club policies was the executive committee, consisting of officers, Don Schultz, president; Dana Springer, vice-president; Adele Nelson, secretary; Marjorie Woodson, treasurer; and representatives from all four classes elected by club members. This group was responsible for awarding miniature megaphones to Pepster-of-the-week, presenting prizes to contest winners, planning homecoming activities, decorating the queen's float, arranging concession management, making pom-poms, wrapping football goal posts with crepe paper, and making signs proclaiming "Welcome" to players and visitors from other schools. Pep and spirit—that's Shawnee-Mission.

Transacting official business of Shawnee-Mission's largest club was one of the responsibilities of the Pep Club officers, Marjorie Woodson, Don Schultz, Adele Nelson, and Dana Springer.

AND WHAT PEP ASSEMBLIES!

Junior and senior girls helping to complete the Homecoming float see to it that the queen will have a genuinely royal ride.

and Roger Collins, have presented another pep of their sterling assemblies, as they conclude with "The Senior Boys' Song."

Leading the Frosh pepsters are their cheerleaders: Barbara Cochran, Betty Pennington, Sandra Whitney, Lila Freleigh, Joanne Thompson, Sondra Muntzel.

Poster, yell, and song contests and pep rallies advanced school spirit, the genuine S-M variety. Tom Miller won first prize, a record player, in the yell contest with the cheer, "Cherokee, Blackfoot, Chippewa, Sioux," while Jayne Lee and Penny Ensminger won second and third honors. Rewording the "Notre Dame Victory March," Barbara Hauck took first in the song contest. The Pep Club, reorganized in 1949, was sponsored by Miss Howe, Miss Lemon, Mr. Shular, Mr. Swanson, Mr. Unruh, and Mrs. Walker, who were responsible for the free bus rides for concession workers to away-games.

PEP CLUB ENTHUSIASTS STAY BEHIND TEAM

NEITHER snowy nor drizzling weather could daunt the spirit of the Pep Club, for its one-thousand members loyally supported athletic contests and other school events. Getting into the spirit of Indian pow-wows, members were frequently seen painted with the traditional red man's war paint. Dressed in typical Indian costumes, the senior girls sat in tepee formation at the Wyandotte basketball game. Indian themes were evident in the war dance about the bonfire for burning the effigy of the Lawrence lion and in skits presented for pep assemblies. Even Mr. Welch became a Mack Sennett bathing beauty to prove that the Pep Club could out-yell study hall students. For thirty-six Friday afternoons, red-jacketed pepsters streamed into the fieldhouse or stadium to give vent to their exuberance and high spirits. "Set up the tepee, build up the fire; do a little war dance, make the score go higher" shook the rafters, and the team knew that they had one-hundred per cent backing. Rhythmical clapping, syncopated chantings, organized cheering—all incited enthusiasm for victories, which were abundant, of course.

CHEERLEADER SEXTET

THE OWNERS of the most shock-proof lungs that could be found in the school were elected by Shawnee-Mission Pepsters as "A" cheerleaders. They were Mona Amos, Betty Lou Watson, Dick Sharp, Kay Pflumm, Dixie Bruflat, and Pat Mockler. Their hours of practice and inexhaustible energy expended on cheerleading were rewarded by spontaneous enthusiasm from the Pep section. The spirited six enjoyed their part in making the basketball and football games successful. Whether they were to make the trips to out-of-town games was never questioned by the cheerleaders; where the team went, the cheerleaders were always to be found.

SPRING BRINGS OUT FEMININE GOLFERS

IN "FORE" short years the membership of the Girls' Golf Club grew to fifty under the sponsorship of Mrs. Walker and Miss Welch. The club was open to any girl taking or having taken golf lessons, who also kept a golf scrapbook and showed a genuine interest in golf. The girls heard such speakers as Paul Weiler and Marian Gault, while a part of the club was instructed by Mrs. Hill in the gymnasium. The members practiced regularly in the spring at Milburn Country Club and held a spring tournament. The Golf Club officers were Marjorie Woodson, president; Barbara Hauck, vice-president; Janet Severin, secretary; and Carol Gould, treasurer.

Reports pertaining to athletics were given at regular meetings. In the spring this group sponsored a volleyball day. WHEN GIRL gym enthusiasts signed up for physical education, they found Mrs. Hodshire's 1951-52 program included more than exercises, basketball, and square dancing. Action plus marked the seasons of semi-organized games, rhythm, tumbling, and outdoor sports.

Boys' physical education too leaped the bounds with touch football, softball, basketball, volley ball, wrestling, boxing, track, soccer, and drill work. Under their instructor, Mr. Bob Johnson, the boys gained physical endurance and strength.

BOYS' GOLF SQUAD

SWINGING their clubs and carrying their bags, the Indian golf squad reported for action. Coach Reade's returning lettermen consisted of Scott Hayden, Gene Elstun, Bob Moore, J. P. Jones, and Hayes Walker. These boys managed an intra-squad meet for golf aspirants before the regular season.

The team then started the season on the right side of the ledger by defeating a strong Topeka four-some 338 to 354 at Milburn. Indian Bob Moore was medalist, carding a 79. Coach Reade hoped his team would be able to top last year's league honors and third-place state ranking in their subsequent matches.

The Shawnee-Mission squad racked up its second win by sweeping all five matches from a hapless Lawrence team on the Indian courts. Paul Burke won 6-1, 6-0, while second singles player, Berny Engel, won 6-0, 6-0. The great depth of the team was displayed by the clean slate scored by all doubles teams. The Redpathmen stayed on top as they pushed by Rockhurst, two matches to one on the Hawks' home court.

A cold day provided the background for the meeting with Wyandotte. The Bulldogs, usually tops in this area, were as cold as the weather. The Indians lashed out with the same fast style of offense and careful defense they had displayed in their earlier matches. Hard determination and careful practice paid well as the Indians dropped their Bulldog foes four to one.

With a perfect record behind them, the Shawnee-Mission team looked forward to their remaining matches with eager anticipation and diligent preparation.

WHEN THE long winter came to an end and spring dried the ground, the Shawnee-Mission tennis squad eagerly began spring practice. The new courts permitted the Indians to play at home for the first time. Paul Burke, Bob Goodrich, Bernell Hiskey, Joe Muller, Phil Rein, Dick Glenn, John Swartz, Paul Fairhurst, and Larry Wood, as returning lettermen, gave the team heavy strength. Berny Engel and Tom Miller completed the squad. The racqueteers soon began smashing the ball much too fast for their opponents. The Olathe squad was soundly drubbed by Coach Redpath's boys as they captured six matches out of the six which they entered.

Clasping gracefully the arch she has just passed under, track queen, Elaine Stiner, appears serene in her proud moments of royalty.

High point man, Malcolm Lindsay, gets a reward from track queen, Elaine Stiner, and her attendants, Janet Severin and Maxine Scott.

SEVEN RECORDS were broken in the second annual Shawnee-Mission Relays. Most of the laurels, however, were piled up by the Southwest Tribe as the S-M trackmen battled with them for points and the many trophies and medals offered. A crowd of nearly 3,000 watched the crowning of the queen and her attendants and the flash of the trackmen's feet. Malcolm Lindsay captured the high-point honors and trophy for the evening by sprinting to victory for Shawnee-Mission in the 100- and 220-yard dashes. This thinclad set a new record in the century dash by posting a 10.3 second count. In all, the event was a success, and the spectators showed with vocal enthusiasm their appreciation for the splendid decorations and straining tracksters.

As the spectators watch, Dale Graham, a veteran trackster, is about to break the tape for first place in the mile run.

Other top places captured at the Ottawa Relays were first for the medley and 880-yard relay teams, as well as second in the broad jump and 880-yard run, by Foster and Mecklenburg respectively. While the "A" team competed at Ottawa, the reserve squad showed their strength at home by racing to an easy victory over Olathe and Bonner Springs, winning firsts in fifteen of the sixteen events. A return to the home cinders resulted in a defeat of the "A" team by the Lawrence Lions. Later Atchison bowed to the Indians, who piled up ten first-place markers in their league dual meet. All in all, the remainder of the season looked bright as the squad increased practice and built up their over-all strength. "Pop" Snodgrass's returning lettermen were Malcolm Lindsay, Kark Mecklenburg, Bob Crisler, Jim Foster, John Parker, Bob Howard, Dick Dupont, Bob Wilson, Hugh Rose, and Dale Graham. INDIAN TRACK SQUAD WIN MEETS

The annual Inter-Class Meet offered new talent for the squad. Although the freshmen claimed first, junior Bill Rockwood set four new records. The Inter-Class Meet was a prelude to the spring season, and the Indians made their bow by capturing a 78-61 victory over the Topeka Trojans. Four meet-records fell to Shawnee-Mission; two, to Topeka. Record performances were turned in by John Parker in the javelin, Jim Foster in the broad jump, and by the medley and 880-yard relay teams. Coach "Pop" Snodgrass's thinclads were ready to compete in the Ottawa Relays, April 5. This annual track carnival was visited by the top Kansas track and field teams competing for honors. Here the Shawnee-Mission squad rolled up 41 points to take third under Wichita East's 63 points and Lawrence's 45 tallies. Malcolm Lindsay captured first place in the 100 and 220-yard dashes; Bob Howard and Bob Euritt placed second in the high jump.

THE POUNDING of rapid-stepping feet around the Indian gymnasium opened the Shawnee-Mission track season that featured the S-M Relays, the K. U. Relays, regional, N. E. K. League, and state contests. The first dual meet was held between halves of the Wyandotte-S-M basketball game February 16. This meet, as well as the dual with Southwest, February 23, ended in defeat for the Indians. The season's outlook was gloomy.

The squad came into stride, however, as they swept to a lop-sided 23-7 win over the Wyandotte Bulldogs in the Kansas City, Kansas Indoor Meet at the Municipal Auditorium. Malcolm Lindsay dashed to first in the 60-yard run, and Bob Wilson flashed over the hurdles to surge first. The relay team of Karl Mecklenburg, Roger Cantril, Dale Graham, and Hugh Rose triumphed in the final event. The season looked more hopeful.

ATHLETIC CLUB SEE FILMS, HEAR SPEAKERS

TO PIGSKIN hero, basketball star, winner on the track oval, powerful tennis player, under-par golfer, or interested spectator, the Athletic Club offered an opportunity to learn the fundamentals of sports and to increase appreciation of athletics. Five hundred members were separated into divisions by classes: freshmen sponsored by Carl Ison, sophomores by Bob Johnson, juniors by "Pop" Snodgrass, and seniors by Harold Reade. These groups elected individual officers but met together for the programs, which featured speakers and movies. John Amberg, professional football player and graduate from Shawnee-Mission, was an outstanding speaker in the year's programs.

LETTERMEN DEVELOP HIGH SPORTS MORALE

Lettermen and their guests hear Bruce Drake, from the coaching staff of Oklahoma University, address the father-son banquet.

Talking over the world of sports today are the Lettermen's Club officers, John Parker, Joe Muller, Bob Crisler, and Jim Foster.

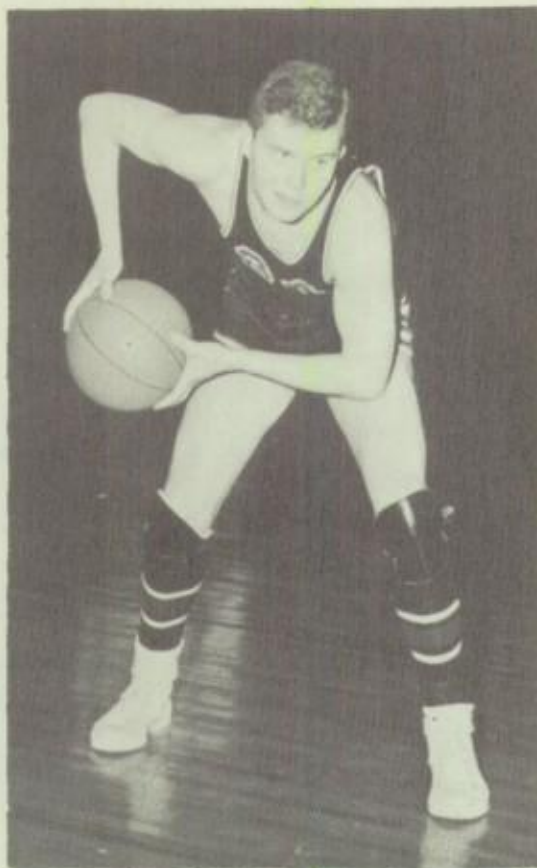

BOYS sporting white sweaters bearing the hard-earned athletic letters caught the eyes of Shawnee-Mission co-eds. To encourage a high code of sportsmanship among varsity athletes, Coach Reade founded the Lettermen's Club. Assisted by Coaches Johnson, Snodgrass, and Redpath, the fifty-four squad men enjoyed carefully selected movies and prominent sports-minded speakers. Members of the club proudly escorted their guests to the lettermen's dinner, picnic, and dance, highlights of the social year.

As recognition for their athletic achievements, "A" and "B" letters are awarded to these boys during an Athletic Club meeting.

DECISION REVERSED

Allen's Drive-In, the Drive-In that quality built. Fairway

Bewildered players and 8,000 dubious fans watch incredulously as President Cliff Thompson is handed the second-place state trophy.

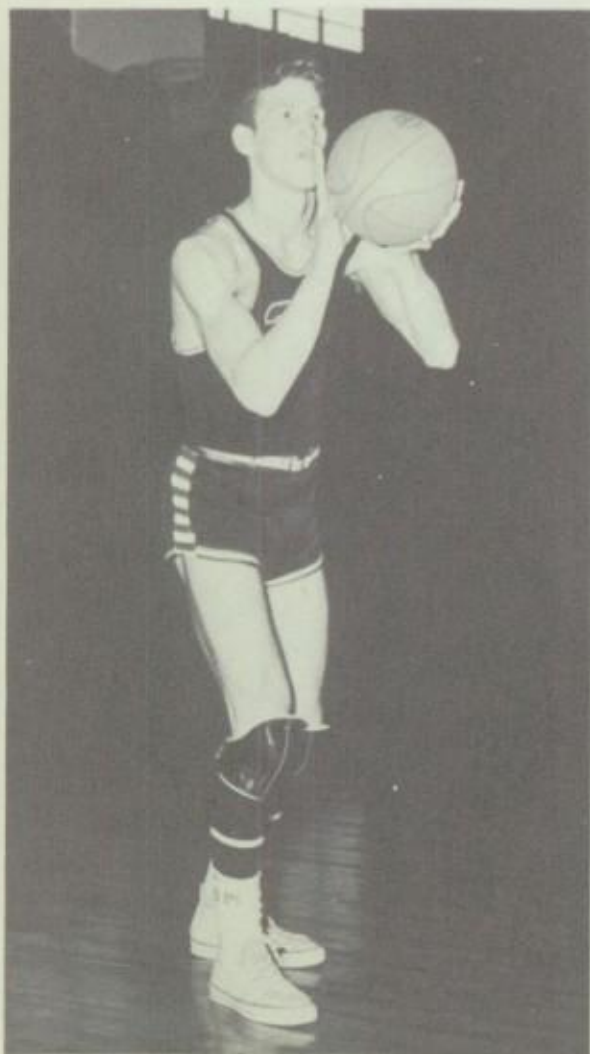

The Newton team scrambled for the pass-in, came up with the ball, and heaved it the full length of the court. Corle jumped into the air to retrieve the wild pass, but the body contact with the Newton player standing behind him was ruled a foul. One second now remained. It was thought only a successful free toss could save the Railroaders. The charity throw hit the rim, bounced to the left more than seven feet, hit the floor, was snatched by a Newton player who pivoted and made a desperation shot that swished the cords. The referees ruled too late, and the S-M squad left the court State Champions amid the wild screaming of 1,000 S-M fans who had joined 7,000 other spectators at Manhattan.

Five minutes later the decision was reversed by the timekeeper. But to a large majority of the 8,000 fans and to the newspaper correspondents who voted 8 to 3 in favor of the S-M team, the gun had gone off seconds before the final Newton shot. Weeks later the State Activities Association refused again to reverse the decision of the highly disputed game. S-M was recorded second in the books; but in the hearts and minds of a great many people, they were State Champions.

This was not a foul! Gene Elstun registers surprise and tenseness as the long arm of the opposing player reaches for the sphere.

The Indians entered the Class AA state championship at the Kansas State fieldhouse in Manhattan with an impressive 21-1 record. The S-M crew tromped Salina in the opening cage match by 52-37 as Dick Dupont dropped in 24 points to lead the victorious Tribe. In the semi-final round, a brilliant and experienced Wichita East broke into early game lead over the Indians, but the Johnsonmen rebounded with perfect form and drubbed the East squad 69-52.

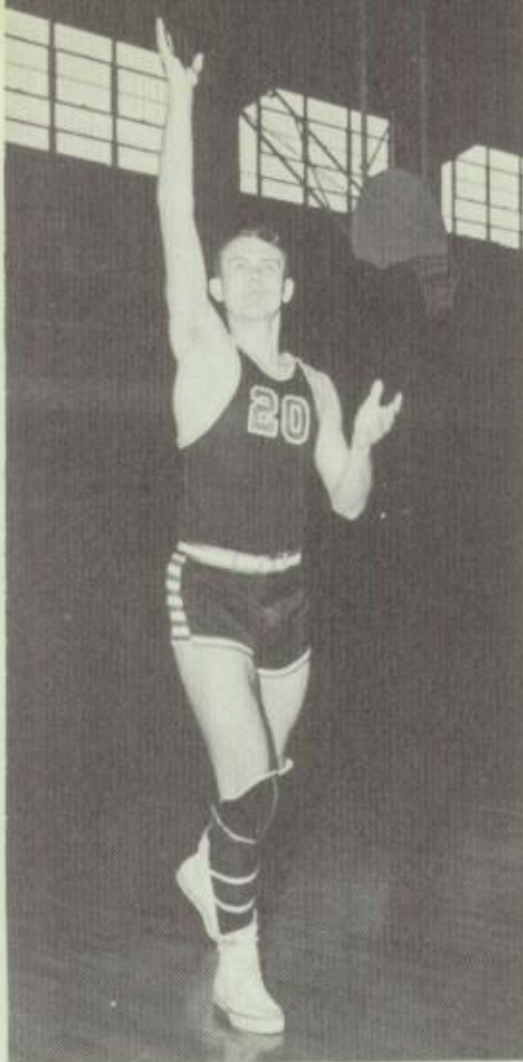

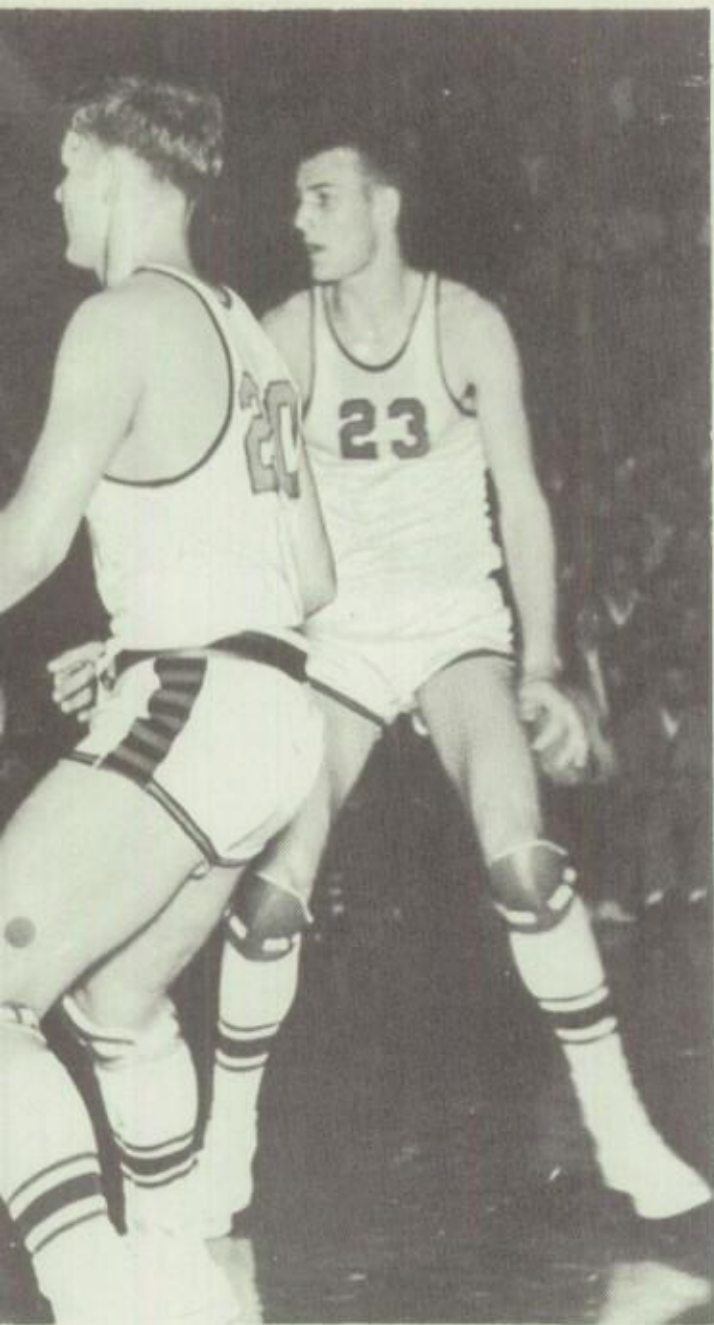

In the final game with the Newton Railroaders, the balance teetered back and forth as the teams exchanged leads for the State Championship. With five seconds to go Joe Corle dropped in two points to place the S-M squad one point ahead. A foul was called on the shot, and the Indians elected to take the ball out of bounds. Five seconds now remained.

CAPTURE NEK LEAGUE ALL OPPONENTS DOWNED

After walloping the Topeka Trojans, the Indians shellacked the Leavenworth Pioneers with a fury of calculated play that broke the school scoring record with a startling 82-42 victory. Bob Johnson's crew closed their regular season by squeezing by an inspired Wyandotte team on a 32-29 score.

With only one team to represent the district at state tournament, the pressure was on as S-M entered play against Leavenworth in the first round of Regional competition. But the Indians pressed down the Pioneers 63-51 and won the Regional finals by defeating Argentine 28-26 after magnificent ball handling froze the sphere for over ten minutes. The Mustangs had hoped to fox S-M with a tight zone, but their close defense tactics were thwarted by Coach Johnson's strategy.

The final game for championship resulted in a last-second loss to the host, Parsons. The roundball team proceeded to dump Ottawa, Ward, Argentine, and Topeka in a series of ball-hawking and precision shooting exhibitions.

Coach Johnson's team then trounced Lawrence, Atchison, Leavenworth, and Ottawa to prove their mastery of the court.

On a return game to the Argentine gym the S-M team downed the Mustangs by a 49-35 score. Careful training enabled the Indians to handle easily a full court press used by Argentine in a last quarter desperation try. The tenth straight win came the following night on Ward's court with a 62-44 triumph over the scrappy Whirlwinds.

The N.E.K. title was retained for another year by vanquishing the Lawrence Lions on the home court. Clever ball-handling and liberal substitution made the game move rapidly as Shawnee-Mission drew a 56-47 margin at the final buzzer.

The Indians pushed over a determined Wyandotte team on February 16, and on the following week eked out a close 42-40 win over a spirited Atchison team.

FROSH AND "B" TEAM BASKETEERS SCORE WINS

FIRST game of any basketball evening was a hard, fast "B" team battle. Composed of sophomores and juniors preparing for the first squad, the team received the deserving applause of the enthusiastic audiences. Conscientious practice resulted in eight wins and two losses in the N.E.K. League and a tie with Lawrence for first place. The smooth play foretold a top team for the coming year. In the freshman ranks a distinctive team emerged from the pool of grade school graduates. For those who did not make the regular squad, a Frosh "B" team was organized. Although the team was not entered in any league, it twice beat the city champion, Central Junior. The season's eight wins overbalanced the five losses encountered to complete a successful year. The Frosh "B" squad split with two wins and two losses.

PREPARATION for future combat on the S-M "A" team was accomplished through a rigorous program carried out by the Freshman and "B" team football squads. Mr. Unruh and Mr. Barnett coached the Frosh to two wins and two losses. The Freshmen were willing workers, and a crop of promising backfield men gave hope to the coaches. The "B" team eleven broke even with three wins and three losses plus one tie. The troubles encountered at the first of the season by Mr. Ison and Mr. Selves were soon alleviated; the Braves charged back to win their later games. SKILLFUL COACHING MAKES FINE TEAMS

Guiding chiefs of the Warriors' football teams were coaches Harold Reade, Charles Scharff, Carl Ison, Arthur Selves, Wilbur Unruh, O. O. Barnett, and John Doxon. The "A" team ll was led by Harold Reade, who served as head coach. He was assisted by line coach Mr. Scharff. Mr. Ison was aided by backfield coach Arthur Selves in directing of the "B" squad. First-year-papooses were directed toward hearty tribesmen by Frosh coach Mr. Unruh, assisted by Mr. Barnett and Mr. Doxon.

BASKETBALL coach for his second year, Bob Johnson rolled up an impressive string of victories to enhance his prestige as chief mentor. A former K-U star and professional basketball player, Johnson drilled his team in fast breaks and smooth ball handling. The "B" team was guided by Glenn Saunders, a former Jayhawk trainer.

VETERAN track coach "Pop" Snodgrass again held the reins of the S-M track squad. He specialized in training the boys for the dashes and distance runs. The javelin, discus, and weight aspirants were handled by Mr. C. Scharff. Mr. W. W. Strong taught proper form in the jumps, and Mr. Louis Burns coached the Frosh tracksters.

ATHLET

Come along, Mr. Interested Observer, with Us to this next section. Let's leave Behind the maze of students' pictures.

Let us review later the senior summaries
And study the twenty outstanding senior Members chosen by their class.

For we are ready to look into the seasons'
Athletic records. Here are the most Colorful memories of a student.

Dear Joan
Well we've had a lot of fun these last 3 years. Your about the nicest girl I know and I wish you the best of everything next year and the many more coming. Here hoping for Senior English. Lots of Luck Joan.

HERE ARE OUR

CITIZENS OF THE WEEK

BACK ROW—D. Snodgrass, M. Back, H. Walker. THIRD ROW—R. McKelvey, W. Koehler, J. Cochran, D. Smith, R. Roark. SECOND ROW—F. Horne, S. Townsend, J. Rupard, A. Rumsey, H. Berndroth, J. Bee. FRONT ROW—A. Berndroth, L. Howland, D. Walrod, G. Rasch, M. Mackey, M. L. Wickersham, J. McAvoy.

Senior girls wanted atmosphere with their Thanksgiving turkey dinner; so they played "Pilgrims" and made a horn of plenty centerpiece for their table.

Super-sized campaign posters enliven cafeteria walls as candidates aspire to leadership through class offices.

Valentines exchanged before school seem to be tickling the funnybones of some of the Senior girls.

Sandra Muntzell and John Burke reign over the Freshman Party.

David West, freshman class president, consults the head sponsor, Mr. Gorsage, for advice pertaining to curricular requirements.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

STANDING—Sondra Whitney, Joanne Thompson, Barbara Barnes, Jean Shenk, John Burke, Janice McElhany, Robert Jones, Dave West. SEATED—Martha McKee, Betty Thomas, Jori Muller, Shirley Henderson.

Getting the busy signal fails to daunt these happy-go-lucky Freshman class officers. Joanne Thompson, secretary, and John Burke, president, do the dialing while Dave West, vice-president, and Martha McKee, treasurer, get their numbers straight.

LEARNING FAST, THE FRESHMEN DID JUST FINE

WHEN FIVE hundred and twenty freshmen enrolled at Shawnee-Mission, the much smaller senior class was a little wary of belittling the underclassmen. The first year students soon became a vital part of school life as they used advantageously the library, cafeteria, and modern classrooms. Striving to carve their own niche at Shawnee-Mission, the freshman class made a remarkable showing in scholarship, school activities, and sports. Battling to lead their class as officers were fourteen freshmen. Election results declared David West, president; John Burke, vice-president; Joanne Thompson, secretary; and Martha McKee, treasurer. These four proved their ability as successful leaders.

John Burke and Sandra Muntzel wore the crowns of royalty at the "Get Acquainted" mixer held early in the year for freshmen newcomers. Barbara Cochran, Lyla Freleigh, Sandra Muntzel, Betty Ann Pennington, Joanne Thompson, and Sandra Whitney were chosen by the entire class as cheerleaders. Working diligently to perfect yells, these girls led the class in supporting their teams. Mr. Gorsage, head sponsor, and Mr. Allison, Mr. Garver, Miss Hetzel, Miss Howe, Miss Jacobs, Mr. Johnson, Miss Lemon, Mr. McCullough, Mrs. McMichael, Mr. Patterson, Miss Simcox, Miss Slaten, Mr. Scharff, Mr. Swanson, Miss Welch, and Mr. Doxon cooperated to aid the freshmen in their planning.

The Sophomores take a ride on the elevator and seem to like it fine.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

Admiring the library's windows, whose colorful displays changed with the holidays and seasons, are Jim McKim, president; Laura Lyon, secretary; Connie Hammerstein, vice-president; and Judy Darby, treasurer, officers selected to lead the sophomore class.

IMPORTANT NOW, THE SOPHOMORES REALLY CLIMBED

LAST SEPTEMBER, many sophomores thought they would be waving goodbye to the seniors from the unending line outside the bookstore. It seemed as though the textbooks for French, bookkeeping, biology, geometry, world history, and driver's education would never get there. Oh! Those lucky people who took subjects like debate, crops, art, and glee club, and needed no textbooks.

Recognized as promising leaders, Jim McKim, Connie Hammerstein, Laura Lyon, and Judy Darby were selected to serve as president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer respectively. They, with the class executive committee, provided flowers for baccalaureate service and commencement,

The "B" team cheerleaders were all sophomores: Betty Burke, Jo Ann Benton, Ellen Marcum, Valerie Davis, Carol Bentrup, Mary Belle Brown, and Barbara Hauck, alternate. Talent provided in assemblies, school presentations, local, state, and national contests merited acclaim. As freshmen they oriented the new pupils to the school and made a success of the Frosh Picnic. During both years, the class had their share of leadership in activities. Sponsors were Mr. Wheat, Mr. Watson, Miss Walch, Miss Seaton, Mr. Saunders, Mr. Selves, Mr. Redpath, Miss Ptacek, Miss Browne, Miss Boys, Mr. Unruh, Miss Theiss, Mr. Snodgrass, Mrs. Goodwin, Mr. Hawkins, and Mr. Burns, head sponsor.

Bryce Cooke and Mrs. Crain discuss plans for the Junior-Senior Prom.

Part of the decorating committee for the Prom is assembled here, making plans for the lavish scenery which will set the atmosphere for that gala affair.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

SEATED—Bruce Gill, Cindy Ziegler, John Foster, Shirley Meyers, Paul Culp, Jeri Lynn Sanders. STANDING—John Parker, Carolyn Weaver, Roger Lembke, George Jackson, Denni Joy, Karl Steegman, Otis Bryan, Bryce Cooke.

Between basketball games, the junior class officers find that popcorn is a good tonic for throats that ache from hearty cheering.

Eating popcorn are Denni Joy, treasurer; Bryce Cooke, president; Carolyn Weaver, vice-president; and Jeri Lynn Sanders, secretary.

LOOKING AHEAD, THE JUNIORS LOVED THE GRIND

UNTRIED BUT dependable, an ever eager junior class was enthusiastic to begin participating as upperclassmen in school activities. It selected Bryce Cooke, president; Carolyn Weaver, vice-president; Jeri Lynn Sanders, secretary; and Denni Joy, treasurer, to carry the responsibility brought them by their new rank. As third year students, they captured honors in music and debate and belonged to many organizations; the annual staff secured the services of nine capable juniors; Marjorie Woodson served as treasurer of Pep Club; the National Honor Society gained five per cent of these outstanding juniors. Several girls and boys were sent to Sunflower Girls' and Boys' State.

Many athletic juniors won letters and awards in basketball, football, track, and other sports. More than the usual number of sports-minded juniors in the Varsity Pep Club supported the events and were led by Dixie Bruflat, Pat Mockler, and Kay Pflumm, junior cheerleaders. In the spring all thoughts were centered on the Junior-Senior Prom. An attempt at formality was maintained by a colorful grand march, but shattered to bits by intermission gaiety. Head sponsor, Mrs. Crain, was ably assisted by Mrs. Gibson, Mrs. Hodshire, Miss Halpain, Mr. McMullen, Miss Nyquist, Miss Phillips, Mr. Pigg, Miss Venard, Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Cross, and Mr. Ison.

Vitality-plus marked the personality of Betty Lou Watson, Shawnee-Mission's Homecoming queen and "A" team cheerleader.

WITH HOPE, NOT FEAR

AND WE LOOK UP TO SHAPE OUR LIVES

Boys' Nation president and the ingenious student body prexy, Cliff Thompson demanded attention both as a scholar and a speaker.

An undisputed wit characterized Adele Nelson, who was a competent, sprightly secretary of the varsity Pep Club.

Besides his mastery of the keyboard, Joe Muller excelled as a debater, tennis player, and vice-president of Student Congress.

Making plans for the activities of the class of "52" are senior class president, Jim Foster, and the head sponsor, W. W. Strong.

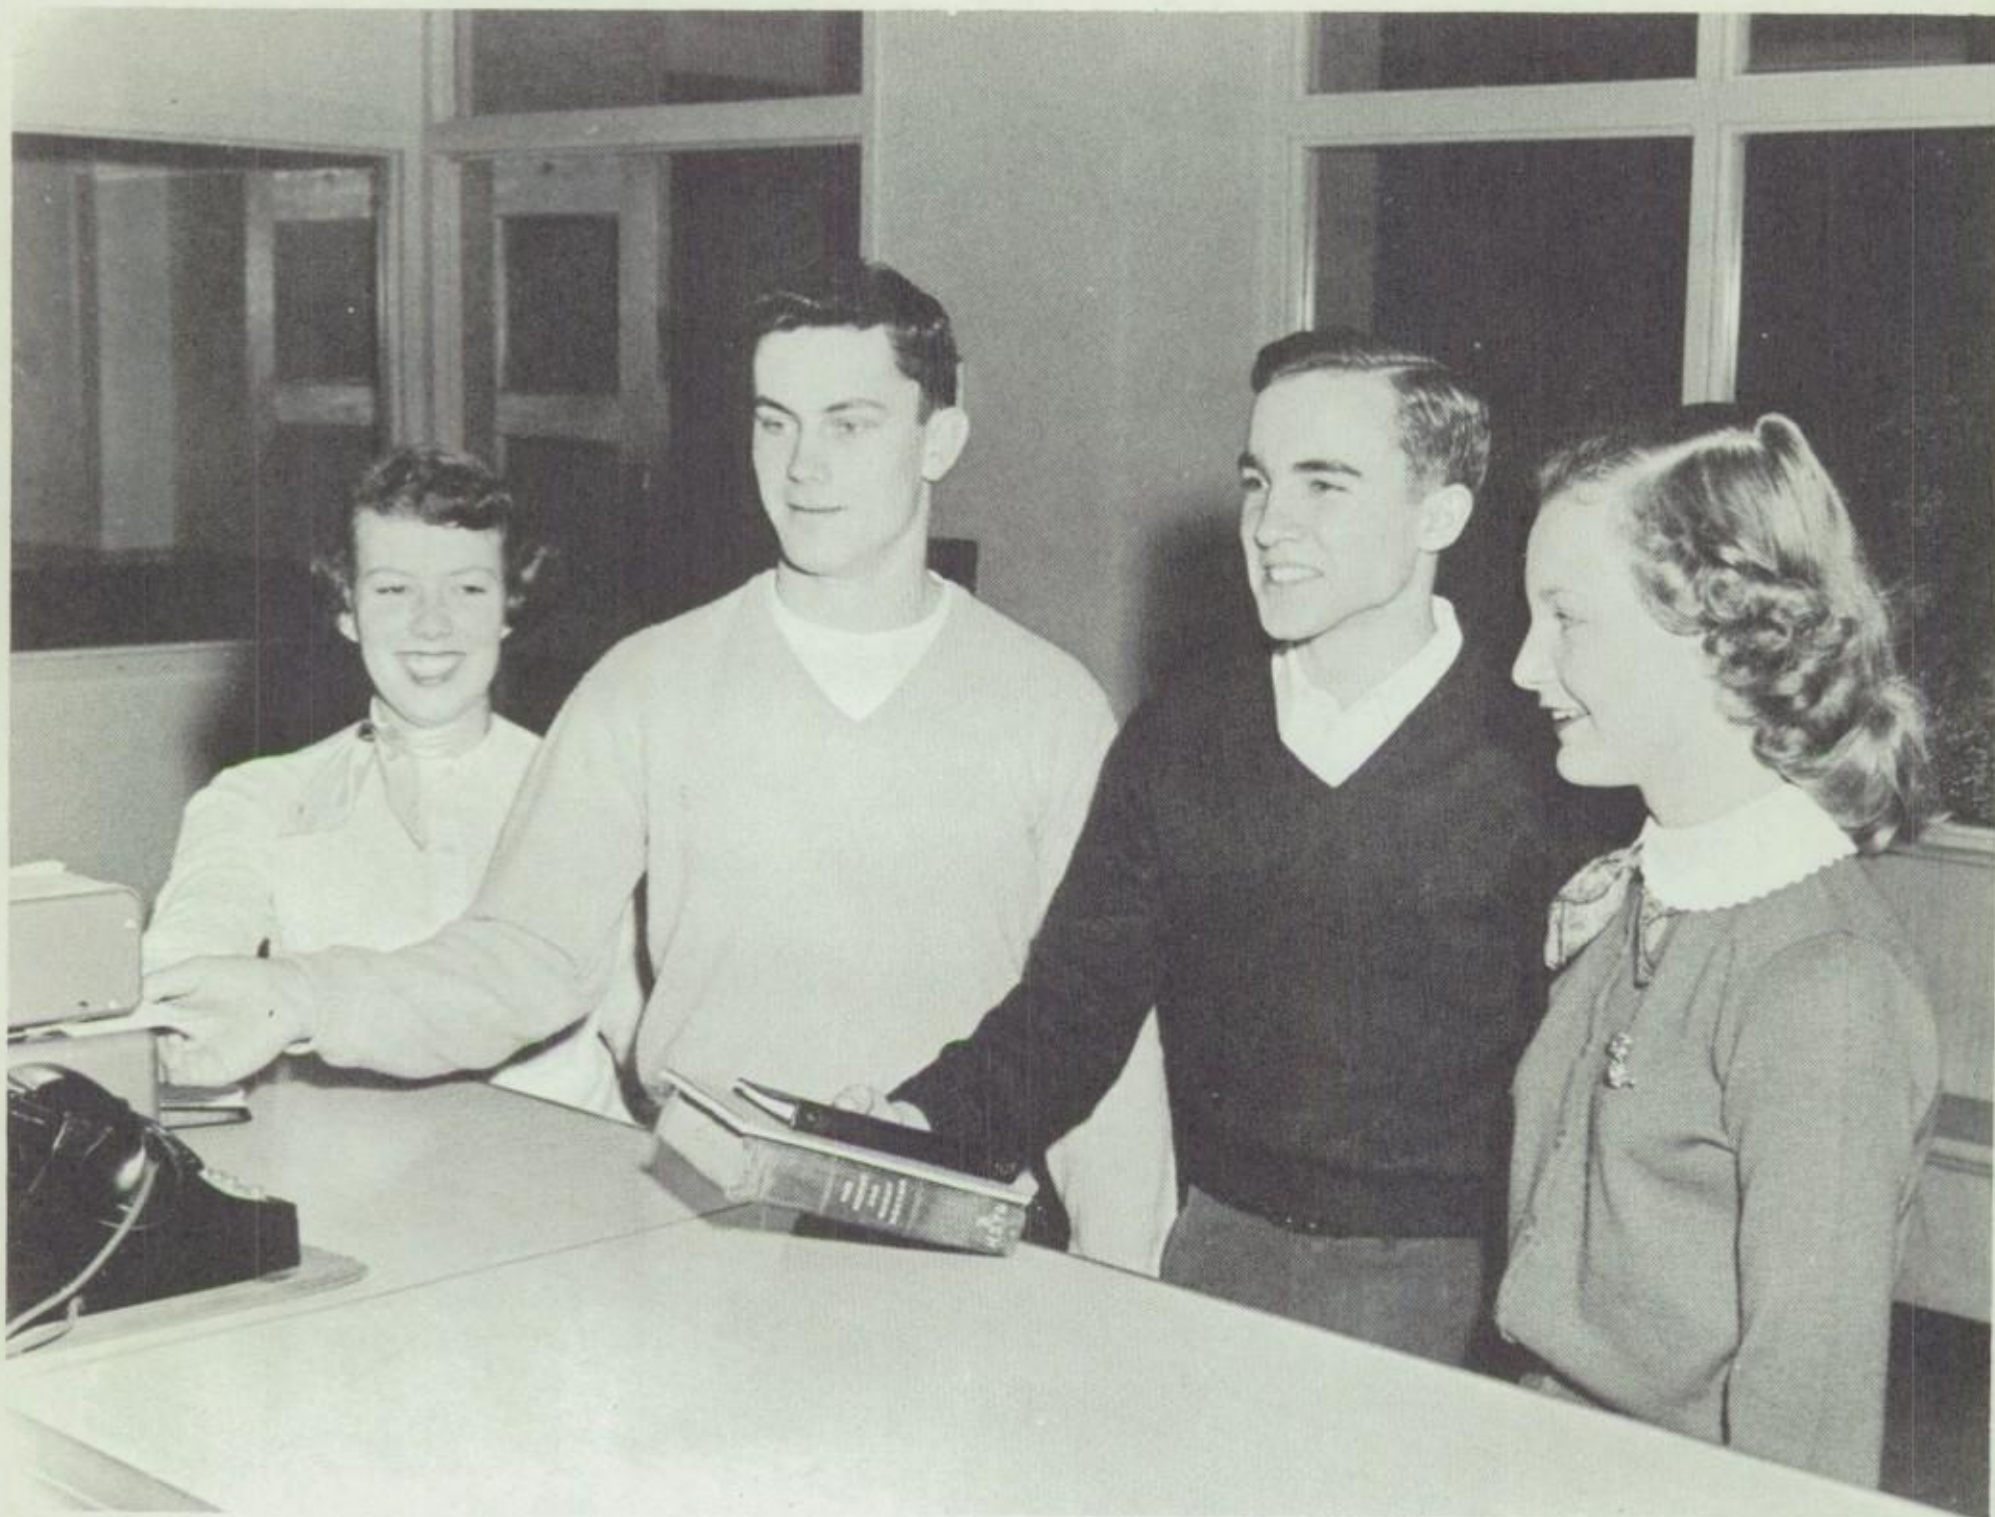

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

SEATED—Sondra Phillips, Stuart Walker, Monna Rae Stough, Paul Burke, Jim Foster, Dana Springer, Asher Langworthy, Norma Norris. STANDING—Curtis Sell, Bill Cullen, John Swartz, Bernell Hiskey, Jim Adam, Neil Dodge.

Discussing their experiences in America are S-M's three German exchange students, Berny Engel, Freddie Paslat, and Rolf Meyer.

Evidently the senior class officers, Dana Springer, secretary; Jim Foster, president; Paul Burke, vice-president; and Monna Rae

Stough, treasurer, have found something to be amusing as they punch a hall pass in that new office contrivance—the time clock.

AT THE CREST, THE SENIORS HAD THEIR MOMENT

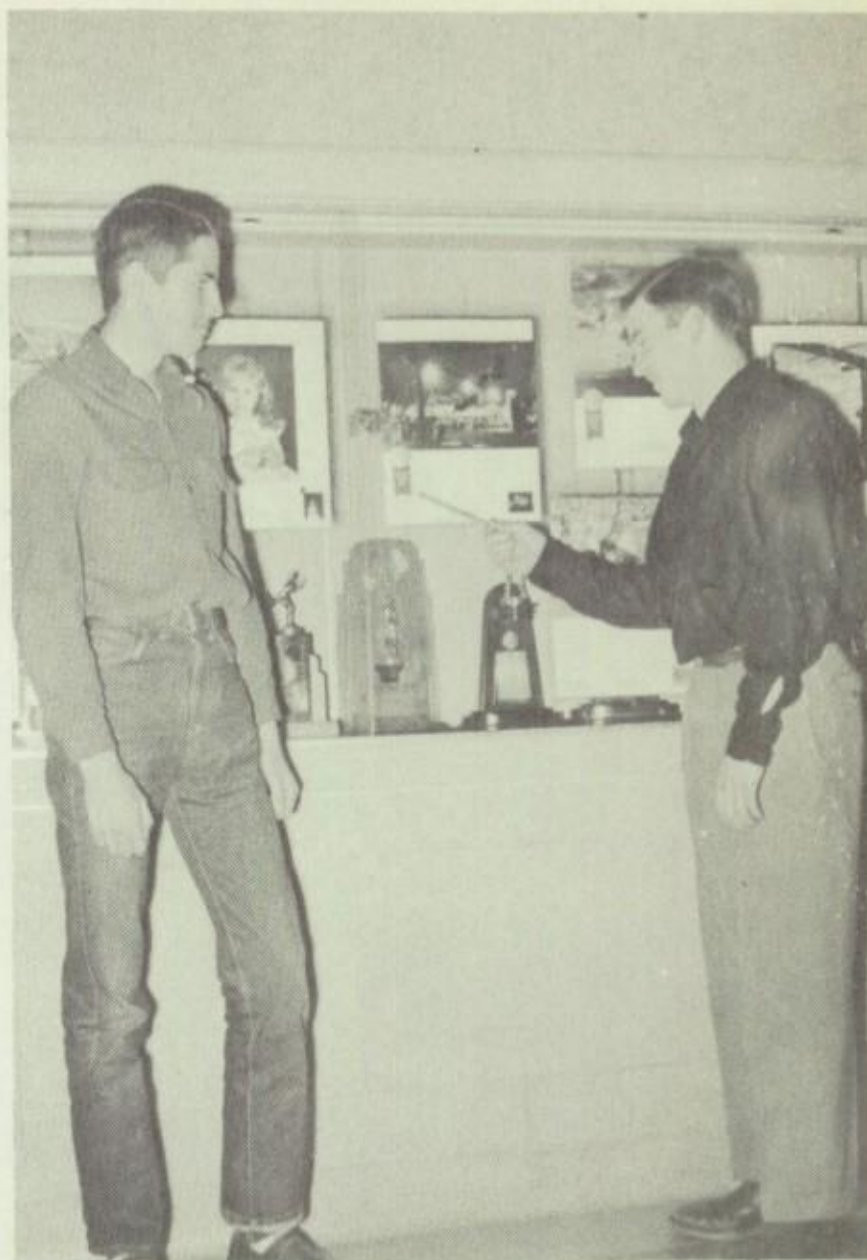

LAST TO REMEMBER the old Shawnee-Mission in the days before 1949 and first to present the new school to their community were the members of the class of 1952, the seniors. The seniors thought they had left the mad scrambling of their freshmen days behind them when they graduated to the sophomore class, but again they had to familiarize themselves with a maze of new activities and events. As juniors they became outstanding in their participation in school affairs. Memories remained firmly in their minds . . . the Junior-Senior Prom; the election of seventeen juniors to the National Honor Society; the triumph of filling two out of the four Student Congress offices.

The senior year was the final page to the album of high school memories. The senior class early in the year placed their confidence in Jim Foster, president; Paul Burke, vice-president; Monna Rae Stough, treasurer; and Dana Springer, secretary. Again the class of '52 took the lead in Student Congress. Cliff Thompson was elected president; Joe Muller, vice-president; Whitney Kerr, treasurer; and Dick Rumsey, secretary. The class of three hundred and forty-nine members was directed by Mr. Strong, head sponsor, and Mr. Alleman, Mr. Barnett, Miss Edwards, Mrs. Fathauer, Mr. George, Mr. Hause, Mr. Hemphill, Mr. Reade, Mr. Shular, Mrs. Thomas, and Mrs. White.

Pausing a moment in the office before going to their classes are Mike Back, Carolyn Andrews, Scott Hayden, Joanne Thompson, and Duke Howze, members of the Reception Committee, who explain the day's schedule to new students and show them some of the more interesting nooks and crannies in the halls of S-M.

WELCOME NEWCOMERS

Scott Hayden, a member of the Student Congress reception committee, is showing Louis Stout, a newcomer, interesting features of the school.

John Dauner smiles as he receives his Citizen of the Week award from Bob Crisler, Student Recognition chairman, during assembly.

Thumbing through the nominations for the "Citizen of the Week" award are Ned Eddy, Ed Kinney, Bob Crisler, Gene Elstun, John Yeazel, and Jerry Cloninger. The citations are presented weekly to two students for long hours of extra-curricular work, such as decorating and library assistance.

Marjorie Mackey's social committee sponsored a monthly dance. Timely decorations and leading bands were a rule at the school frolics. The school improvement committee headed by Fred Horne acted upon worthy suggestions found in the large red "Beef Box."

Scott Hayden's reception committee gave a friendly welcome and sponsored tours of the building to incoming students. Each newcomer was given a paper containing a short history of the new Shawnee-Mission. School elections were efficiently conducted by Don Williams and his election committee.

Dick Morrison's public relations committee prepared the valuable Student Directory, which listed each student's telephone and address.

In addition, the Student Congress energetically filled the year with a safe driving campaign, Shawnee-Mission's first intramural contests, and membership in the Kansas City, Kansas, Youth-for-Clean-Government Program.

Bob Bush, Laura Lyon, Vicky Smith, and Don Williams, members of the election committee, discuss methods of counting ballots.

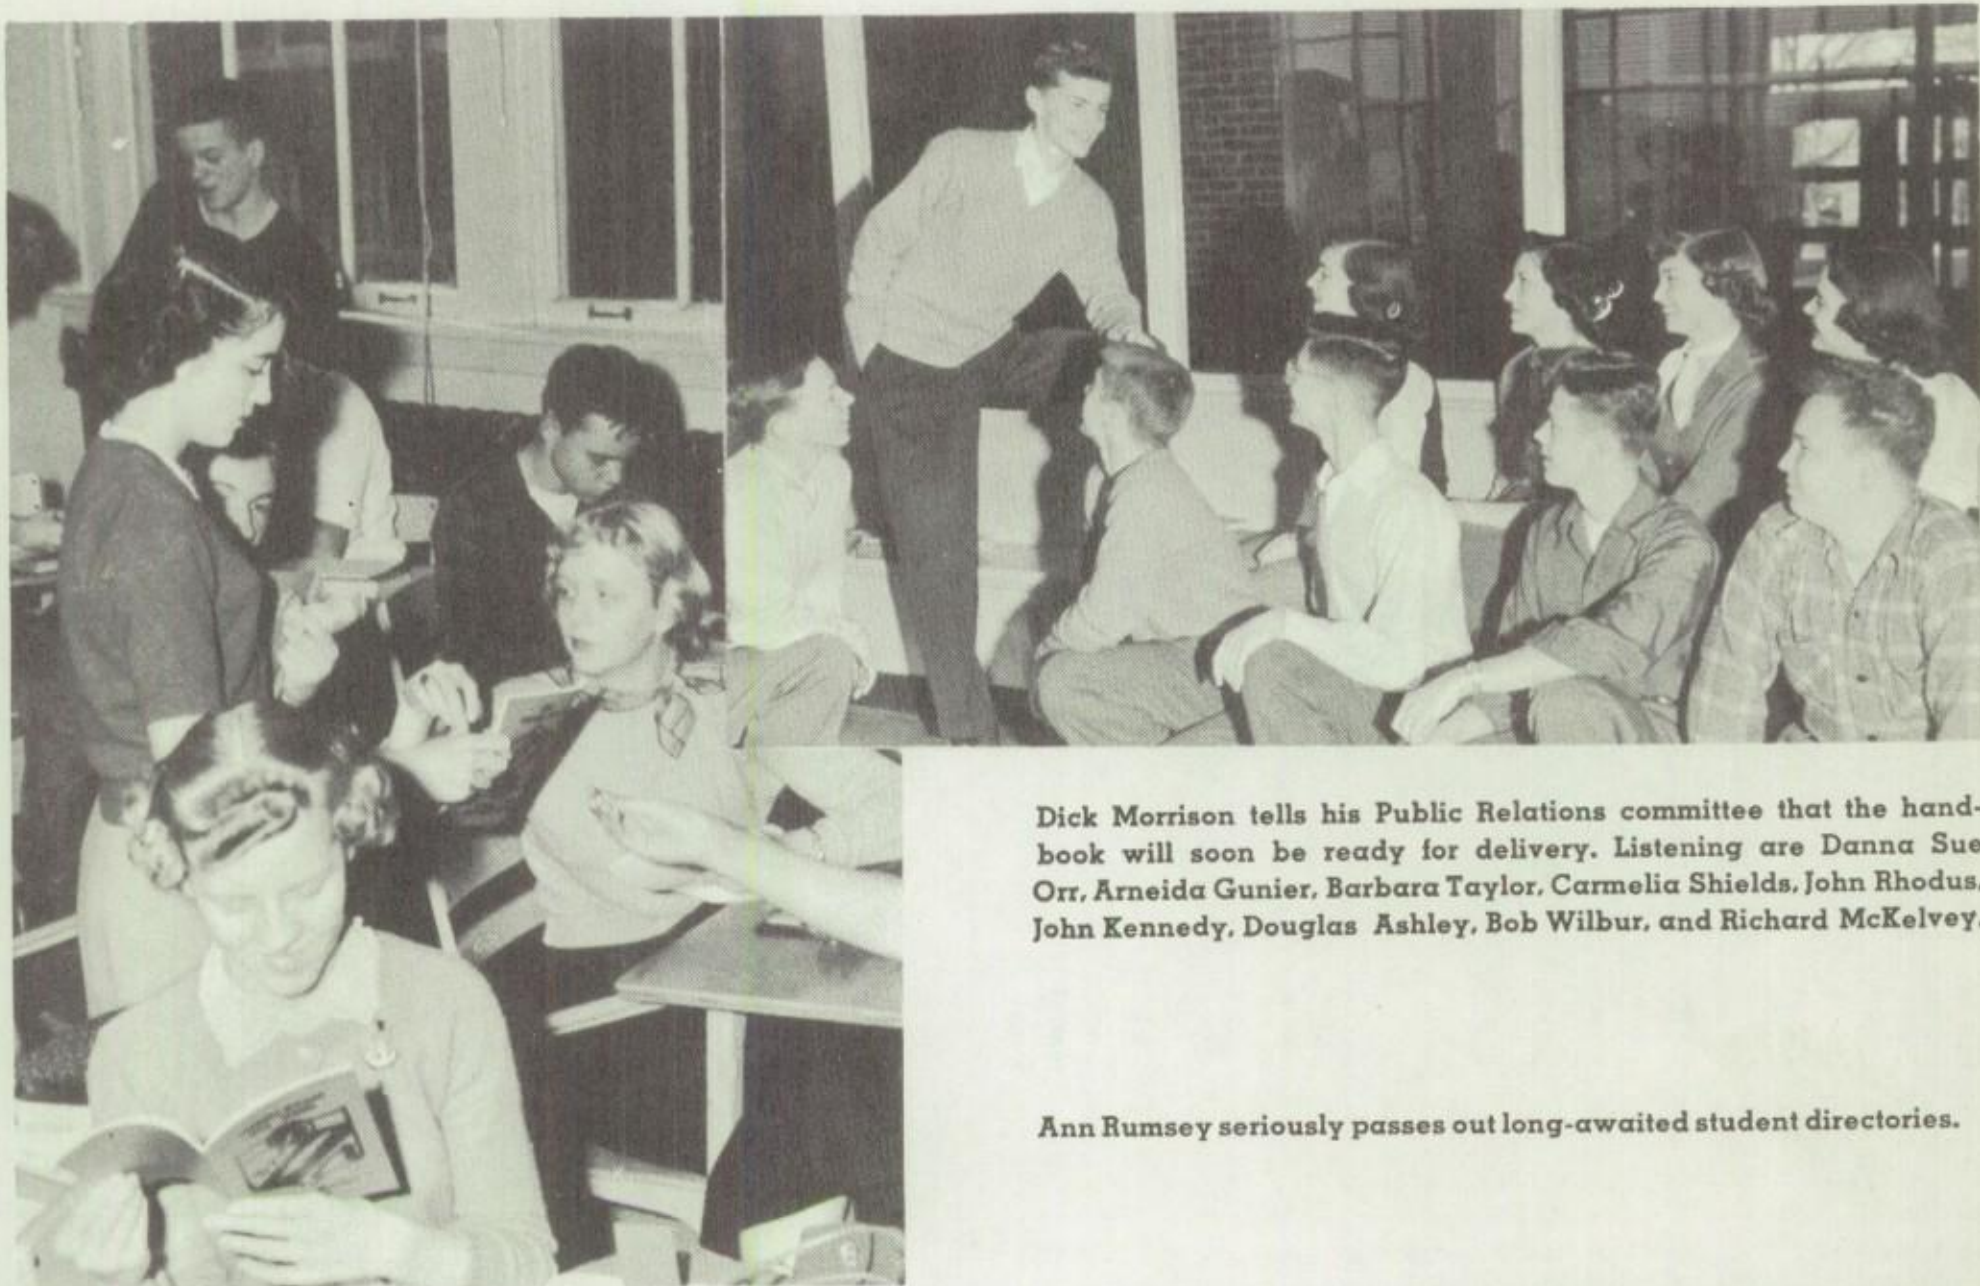

COMMITTEES ACTIVATE TALENT ASSEMBLIES

Mary Lee DuPont, Bob Skinner, Larry Pigg, Ann Rumsey, Joyce Tighe, and Roger Roark seem to be happy with the show that their assembly committee has just presented.

Ned Eddy helps Orville Roberts demonstrate atomic energy.

SCHOOL EVENTS, INSPIRES STUDENT SUPPORT

Dick Morrison tells his Public Relations committee that the handbook will soon be ready for delivery. Listening are Danna Sue Orr, Arneida Gunier, Barbara Taylor, Carmelia Shields, John Rhodus, John Kennedy, Douglas Ashley, Bob Wilbur, and Richard McKelvey.

Ann Rumsey seriously passes out long-awaited student directories.

"OF THE PEOPLE, by the people, and for the people." Each representative followed this maxim by expressing the will of his homeroom in Student Congress.

Leading the congress was Cliff Thompson, who presided at assemblies and cabinet meetings. The other student body officers were Joe Muller, vice-president; Whitney Kerr, treasurer; and Dick Rumsey, secretary.

Given a strong hand in all school functions, the congress sub-divided into committees to carry out efficiently the students' desires. Valuable assistance was given these committees by Mr. James C. Hawkins, the advisor.

The assemblies and activities committee with Bob Skinner as chairman promoted successful student talent assemblies and chartered school clubs.

Bob Crisler and his recognition committee carefully studied student and faculty nominations to choose a "Citizen of the Week."

Smiles on the faces of the members of the School Improvement Committee may turn to frowns when the students' ideas are read. As Fred Horne opens the "Beef Box," Sandra Muntzel, Don Schultz, Jim McLeod, Jim Austin, Bob Nichols, Jim Gould, Gary Hannaman watch.

TRATION

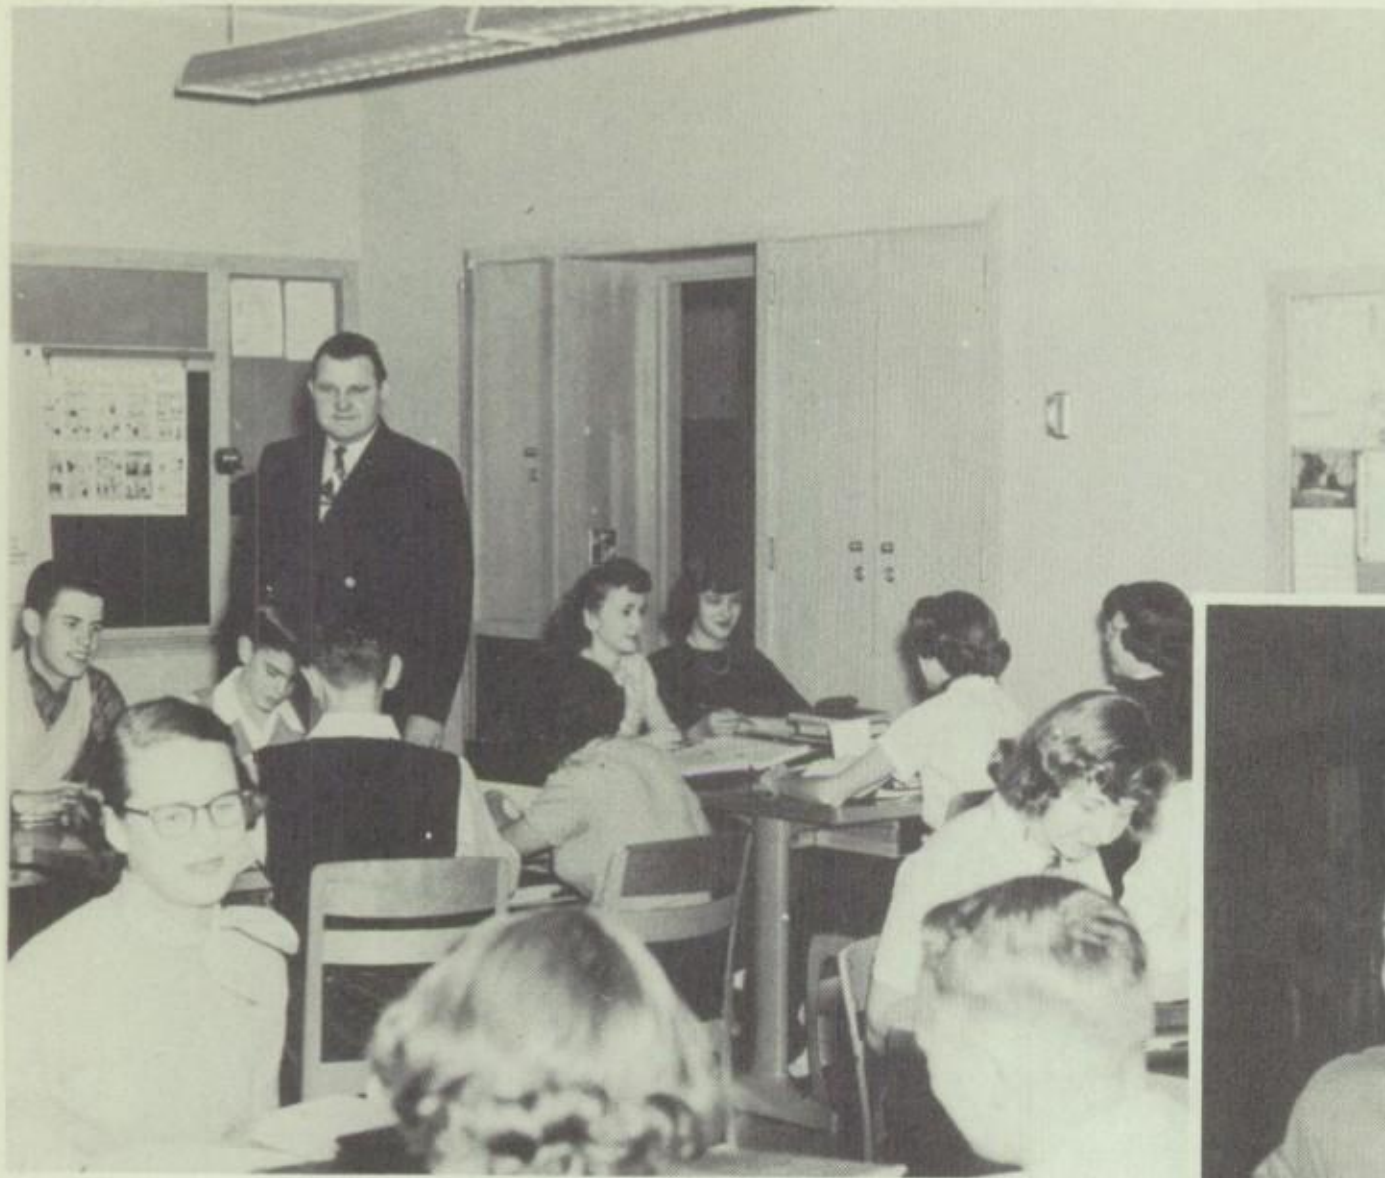

ADMINIS

Now, Mr. Interested Observer, you have been Presented to Shawnee-Mission's administration, Its P.T.A., and its Board of Education.

You have become aware that there is a Faculty Club and you know even better Mr. McEachen and Mr. Welch.

Why not continue? You are ready to View the student body. Here are those Upon whom rests the future's promise.

HERE IS OUR

First hour general business students work in groups of four on problems under the guidance of Mr. Barnett.

"Murlie" Welch rests just out of water after descending a rung each time the Pep Club yelled louder than a cafeteria-study-hall when it is in full voice.

Mr. Wheat explains the many advantages and uses of the silk screen process to the interested members of the beginning art classes.

Students perform an experiment in chemistry class while Mr. Hawkins stands by, ready to offer his assistance.

STUDENT TEACHERS LAUNCH CAREERS

Shawnee-Mission's first student teachers were Carolyn Crosier and Eugene Gaston, both education majors sent from Kansas University.

"WE LEARN by doing." The cadet teachers sent to our school from Kansas University worked with this quotation in mind. Students had to be seniors in the School of Education to qualify for the seven-week program of actual teaching experience. Upon their arrival, a week was devoted to observing classes in their major subjects. The remaining weeks these teachers could be seen educating students. Carolyn Crosier, in the social science department, and Irvin Gaston, in the mathematics, were the first two students to come to Shawnee-Mission under the program.

STANDING—Sue Swartz, Hugh Everly, Sue Neff, Grace Wycoll. SEATED—Marjorie Sealy, Donna Hillyer.

FRED STUMBO, B.S., served as superintendent of the buildings and grounds.

Alvin G. VanBibber, R. J. Fromholtz, Clyde Long, Charles E. Ogan

CUSTODIANS COMBAT DIRT

Daily, raising and lowering the stars and stripes is Mr. Ogan.

"CALLING Mr. Stumbo" soon became a familiar P. A. message throughout the year. Working endlessly to keep the school looking brand new were Mr. Fred Stumbo, engineer, and his competent assistants, Charles E. Ogan, Alvin G. Van Bibber, Clyde Long, C. G. Chapman, Alfred McElroy, R. J. Fromholtz, David L. Christie, and Gordon W. Magness. The students were grateful to these men for their faithful service and their constant good humor, even when sweeping up the remains of a spilled lunch tray.

B. Chapman, C. Chapman, K. Smith, E. Jones, A. McElroy, M. Moore, W. McLerran.

ELIZABETH McCARTNEY, B.A., managed the new cafeteria and planned good meals for the students.

Mrs. Alvina Wattenberg, Mrs. Naomi Jones, Mrs. Mary Spangler, Mrs. Malvena Seute, Mrs. Beatrice Sanders, Mrs. Elizabeth McCartney.

CAFETERIA IS INITIATED

GOOD MANAGEMENT plus good food composed the recipe followed by Mrs. Elizabeth McCartney, school dietitian, and her staff of efficient workers. Ready and waiting for them at the beginning of the year was a completely new set of equipment installed in a spacious kitchen. Their primary goal was to meet the students' tastes and serve them what they wanted at a minimum cost. Everyday between four hundred and eight hundred students and faculty filed through the cafeteria doors. Cafeteria problems were many; but Mrs. McCartney, advising and supervising, solved them.

Students eagerly reach for the nutritious lunch in the cafeteria.

AILENE THOMAS, B.S., managed the new library and aided students in securing good books.

Deborah Welsh instructs Betty Jo Kipp as to the use of the card catalogues.

Many seniors can be found seeking information for their second semester source themes from the collection of reference books in the library.

LIBRARY IS ESSENTIAL AID

SHAWNEE-MISSION started school in the fall with a spanking new library. Bamboo drapes, hung at the windows, shed a soft, pleasant daylight on the blond birch furniture. Long tables bordered by leather-backed chairs stood in the main section of the spacious room, while round tables graced the alcoves. Well-used were the three soundproof conference rooms, the reference room, and the browsing room. Behind the unfaltering order and the quiet atmosphere was Mrs. Ailene Thomas, librarian. During the year she re-catalogued most of the two thousand fiction and four thousand reference volumes.

Library assistants help Mrs. Thomas during their study hours.

Back-To-School night enables all parents to acquaint themselves with the daily schedules of their children by attending classes and meeting the teachers to promote parent-teacher co-operation.

Grave looks indicate that Mrs. Gibson, Mr. Swanson, Mrs. Noel, and Mr. Ison, Faculty Club officers, are planning new ventures for their group.

FACULTY CLUB WORKS AND PLAYS

SHAWNEE-MISSION, meet your faculty club. Students, do you ever wonder what a faculty member does after the 3:30 dismissal bell? At certain regular intervals, the more than sixty persons meet with the expressed intention of furthering professional growth. Along the way, they occasionally find time to enjoy a dinner, a picnic, or a jolly get-together.

An outline of the year's program reads, as might be expected, like an agenda for a scholarly body. When this agenda is simplified, committees establish a budget, pass on legislative recommendations, plan stimulating programs, and further public relations. They suggest classroom procedures, provide activities for social meetings, seek good relations with legislators, and draw up and recommend changes in the local organization. Other committees make suggestions concerning salary, tenure, teacher load, and class sizes.

Working in such a manner, seven committees aim to study Shawnee-Mission carefully to improve classroom instruction. Carl Ison, president of the organization, and his assistants, Maurice E. Swanson, vice-president; Mildred A. Noel, treasurer; and Romain Gibson, secretary, carried on the tradition of the faculty club, initiated five years ago.

BOARD SERVES COMMUNITY

Mr. Welch, Mr. Stumbo, and Mr. Hemphill serve as judges in a talent show.

SHAWNEE-MISSION, meet your Board of Education. Become acquainted with the six public-spirited persons who, in spite of having businesses of their own, unselfishly assume numerous responsibilities beyond the call of duty. Why? They are willing to serve the community and you.

Know these men who strive to promote worthy enterprises. Realize that they are the men who provide the balance wheel between 63,000 citizens and a tightly-knit Shawnee-Mission unit of over 1,725 students and sixty-two faculty members. Understand their importance, for it is in you that their common interest centers . . . you, "the hope of America for the future," as Mr. R. L. Fish, Board director, previously expressed himself. "It is you and your ability to get the job done in whom the Board places its confidence. To you the Board of Education is happy to extend its best wishes for your future."

Hungry square dancers call time for rest and refreshments during intermission. Mrs. Elstun distributes coffee, doughnuts, and cold drinks to the eager buyers.

P. T. A. COMBINES ENERGY WITH HOSPITALITY

LAST OCTOBER the Shawnee-Mission High School presented a strange sight. The student body seemed to be an older one. A visitor would have stared unbelievably at the adults sitting in night classes of the regular teachers, and then hastening down the hallways to the next classes when the bell rang.

Back-to-School night has become one of the most successful activities sponsored by the Shawnee-Mission Parent-Teacher Association. In an event attended by more than 1,200 persons, the parents attended the same classes as their children did.

An outstanding event of the year was the Benefit Card Party and Square Dance. It served a two-fold purpose, to raise the budget and provide an evening of fellowship for parents and teachers. Such activities have served to bring the parents in closer touch with the school for the betterment of education.

In October the P.T.A. sponsored Parent Education classes for its members, meeting weekly in the mornings. Speakers discussed safety, vocational guidance, and related subjects.

Outstanding speakers addressed the meetings, including L. V. Boardman, special agent in charge of the Kansas City, Missouri, office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and Dr. Franklin D. Murphy, Chancellor of the University of Kansas.

Other programs included the December Christmas Concert, the Founders' Day Program, and the big Student Exhibit night.

Officers of the P.T.A. are Mrs. C. L. Ruthrauff, president, and Mrs. Paul Kent, Mrs. Howard Hayden, Mrs. Justin D. Bowersock, Mrs. A. C. Langworthy, Mrs. Ray Lawrence, Mrs. Robert Bush, Jr., Mrs. W. C. Arrowsmith, and Howard D. McEachen.

Mrs. Langworthy, treasurer; Mrs. Arrowsmith, parliamentarian; Mr. McEachen, consultant; Mrs. Hayden, second vice-president; Mrs. Bush, historian; Mrs. Lawrence, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Bowersock, recording secretary; Mrs. Ruthrauff, president; Mrs. Kent, first vice-president.

Forty-seven squares dance to the calling of Eli Wheat, George Mangiaracina, Frank Pecinovsky, and Jesse Hyatt at the PTA's benefit dance last fall. The spectators enjoy the colorful panorama of western style shirts and swirling calico skirts.

Mrs. Harry Atherton

Mrs. Alberta Gallagher

Mrs. Dorothy Hays

THE VOICE answering "Shawnee-Mission" when one dialed Hedrick 1943 was that of one of the office workers who co-operated in school administration. It might have been Mrs. Glen Soellner, Mr. Welch's assistant, who kept a watchful eye on students and faculty; or Mrs. Harry Atherton, secretary to Mr. McEachen, completing her first year at Shawnee-Mission. Mrs. Dorothy Hays checked financial affairs. The Board of Education's book-keeper, Mrs. Alberta Gallagher, was assigned the responsibility of student transportation. Miss Norma Stoeltzing's major duty was operating the switchboard; whereas, Mrs. Betty Hall helped to record grades and to change schedules.

Mrs. Glen Soellner

TASKS FOR OFFICE STAFF TO MAN

Mrs. Soellner, Miss Stoeltzing, Mrs. Atherton, and Mrs. Gallagher listen to the problems, complaints, and requests of S-M students and try to help them.

Miss Norma Stoeltzing

HOWARD D. McEACHEN

"GOOD MORNING, ladies and gentlemen. Here are your announcements for today . . ."

. . . These pleasant greetings were brought to us daily by Principal Howard D. McEachen. Despite its being an added task, "Mac" achieved what he wanted—a closer relationship with the student body.

"We are happy to welcome a very distinguished visitor to the campus today . . ."

. . . Never in seven previous years did Mr. McEachen act as host to so many dignitaries who desired to inspect our building and observe our classes in session.

"To entertain you in activity period, a representative from the University of Kansas has agreed to . . ."

. . . Yes, assemblies were under the supervision of so versatile a man. Often, Mr. McEachen himself conducted an assembly, always eager to offer encouragement and counsel.

"That concludes the announcements for today."

. . . But a busy day had just begun for a dyed-in-the-wool Scotchman. Here was the strongest link in the chain which bound Shawnee-Mission to the community.

"HE KNOWS ALL, sees all, hears all," golden words of wisdom spoken centuries ago, are still applicable in this modern age to our vice-principal, G. Murlin Welch.

"He knows all." "Murlie's" knowledge of student activities seemed unending. Keeping records, directing registration, and superintending a complicated system of transportation were only a few of his duties.

"He sees all." Quick to notice infractions of school rules, Mr. Welch also proved himself an accurate judge of student character.

"He hears all." "Murlie" heard, before anyone else, of the triumphs and shortcomings of S-Mites and while proud of the triumphs, he coped diplomatically with the shortcomings.

Mr. Welch's job has not been an easy one; in his fair consideration of student problems, he has won the students' admiration.

S-Mites attending the Women Pay All dance see double as matching sweaters, socks, shirts, ties, or suspenders characterize the dress of the couples.

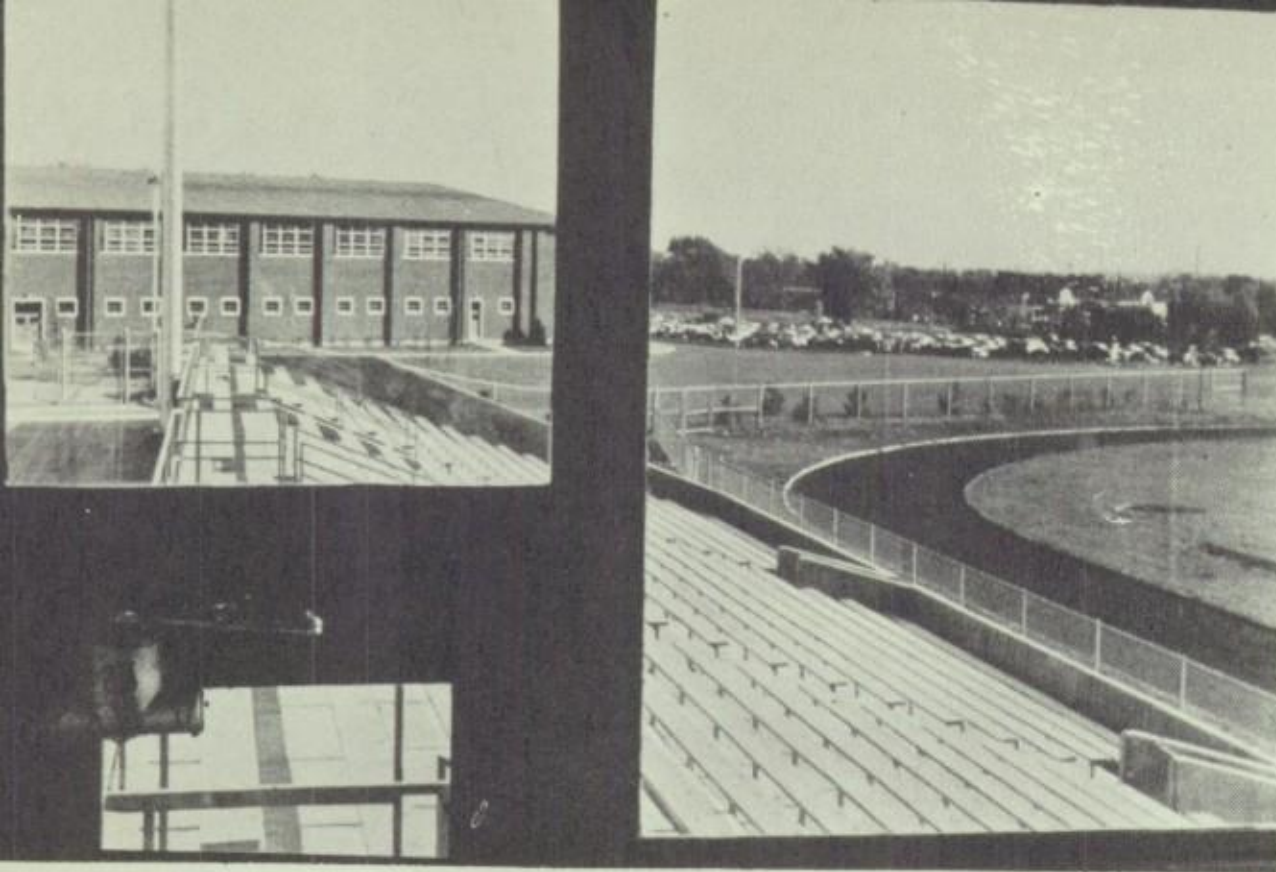

Chief "Standing Bull" watches as Dorothy Parshall and Margy Mackey add more of the fast rising "red mercury" to the Indian sales thermometer.

Thanksgiving turkey dinner served by the cafeteria draws crowds, but still others eat the usual "sack lunches."

After dashing from class to class during the day, students make the walk to the parking lot a leisurely one.

Looking north, a track segment, rows of bleachers, and the field house, with parking lot adjacent, are framed by the windows of the football stadium broadcasting booth.

FOR THE benefit of 1,725 students nearly three hundred separate classes are available. Sixty-two members compose the faculty, and there is a maintenance staff of twelve men. The school is fully accredited. Its building site was originally that of the Old Friends' Mission during the Civil War days. Cost of the building and site was $3,242,419.66.

David Staver, sophomore, opening his locker for the first time, seems to find it still occupied by a long departed senior of "'51."

Angel hair and blue-and-silver decorations are added to the seventeen-foot tree that highlighted the decorating scheme of the Christmas formal.

Enrollment days in the fall find the students patiently awaiting turns in the lengthy line.

The couples dance at the semi-formal homecoming dance in the boys' gym, while the decorated throne can be seen in the background.

BRINGING with it ample elbow room, Shawnee-Mission's new, widespread campus has replaced the one-building layout of 1923. Now under roof are 5.2 acres of floor area. There are 35,000 square yards of paved parking area and one and one-half miles of sidewalk.

Ice and snow provide a calm, picturesque setting for Shawnee-Mission's entrance; lacking are clusters of hustling students bound for home or school.

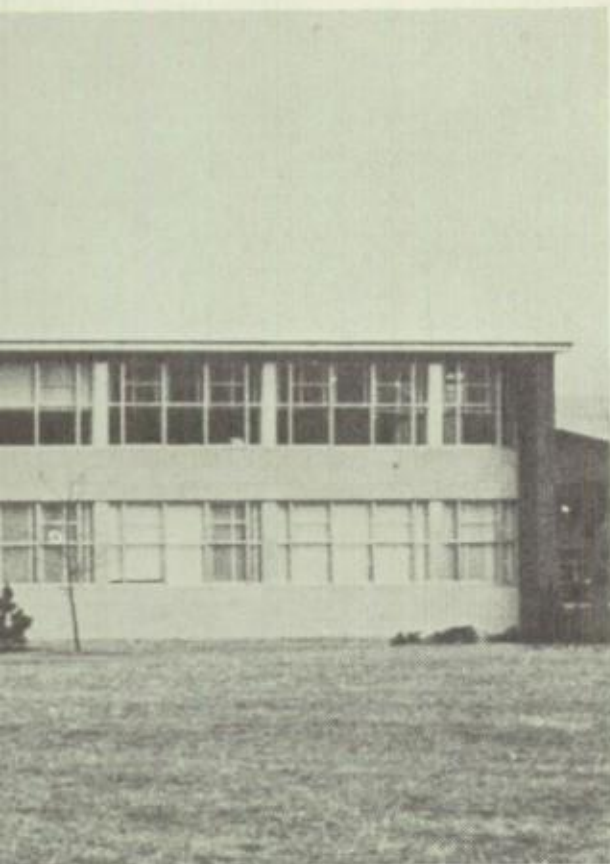

When the book store is opened before school, students dash to buy last-minute supplies such as paper, books, notebooks, and items needed for a day of studying at S-M.

CONSIDERING that Kansas City celebrated its centennial in 1950, we realize this is a comparatively new high school. Eighteen proud students comprised the first graduating class of 1923. The faculty consisted of twelve teachers, one of whom, Mr. M. E. Alleman, still remains.

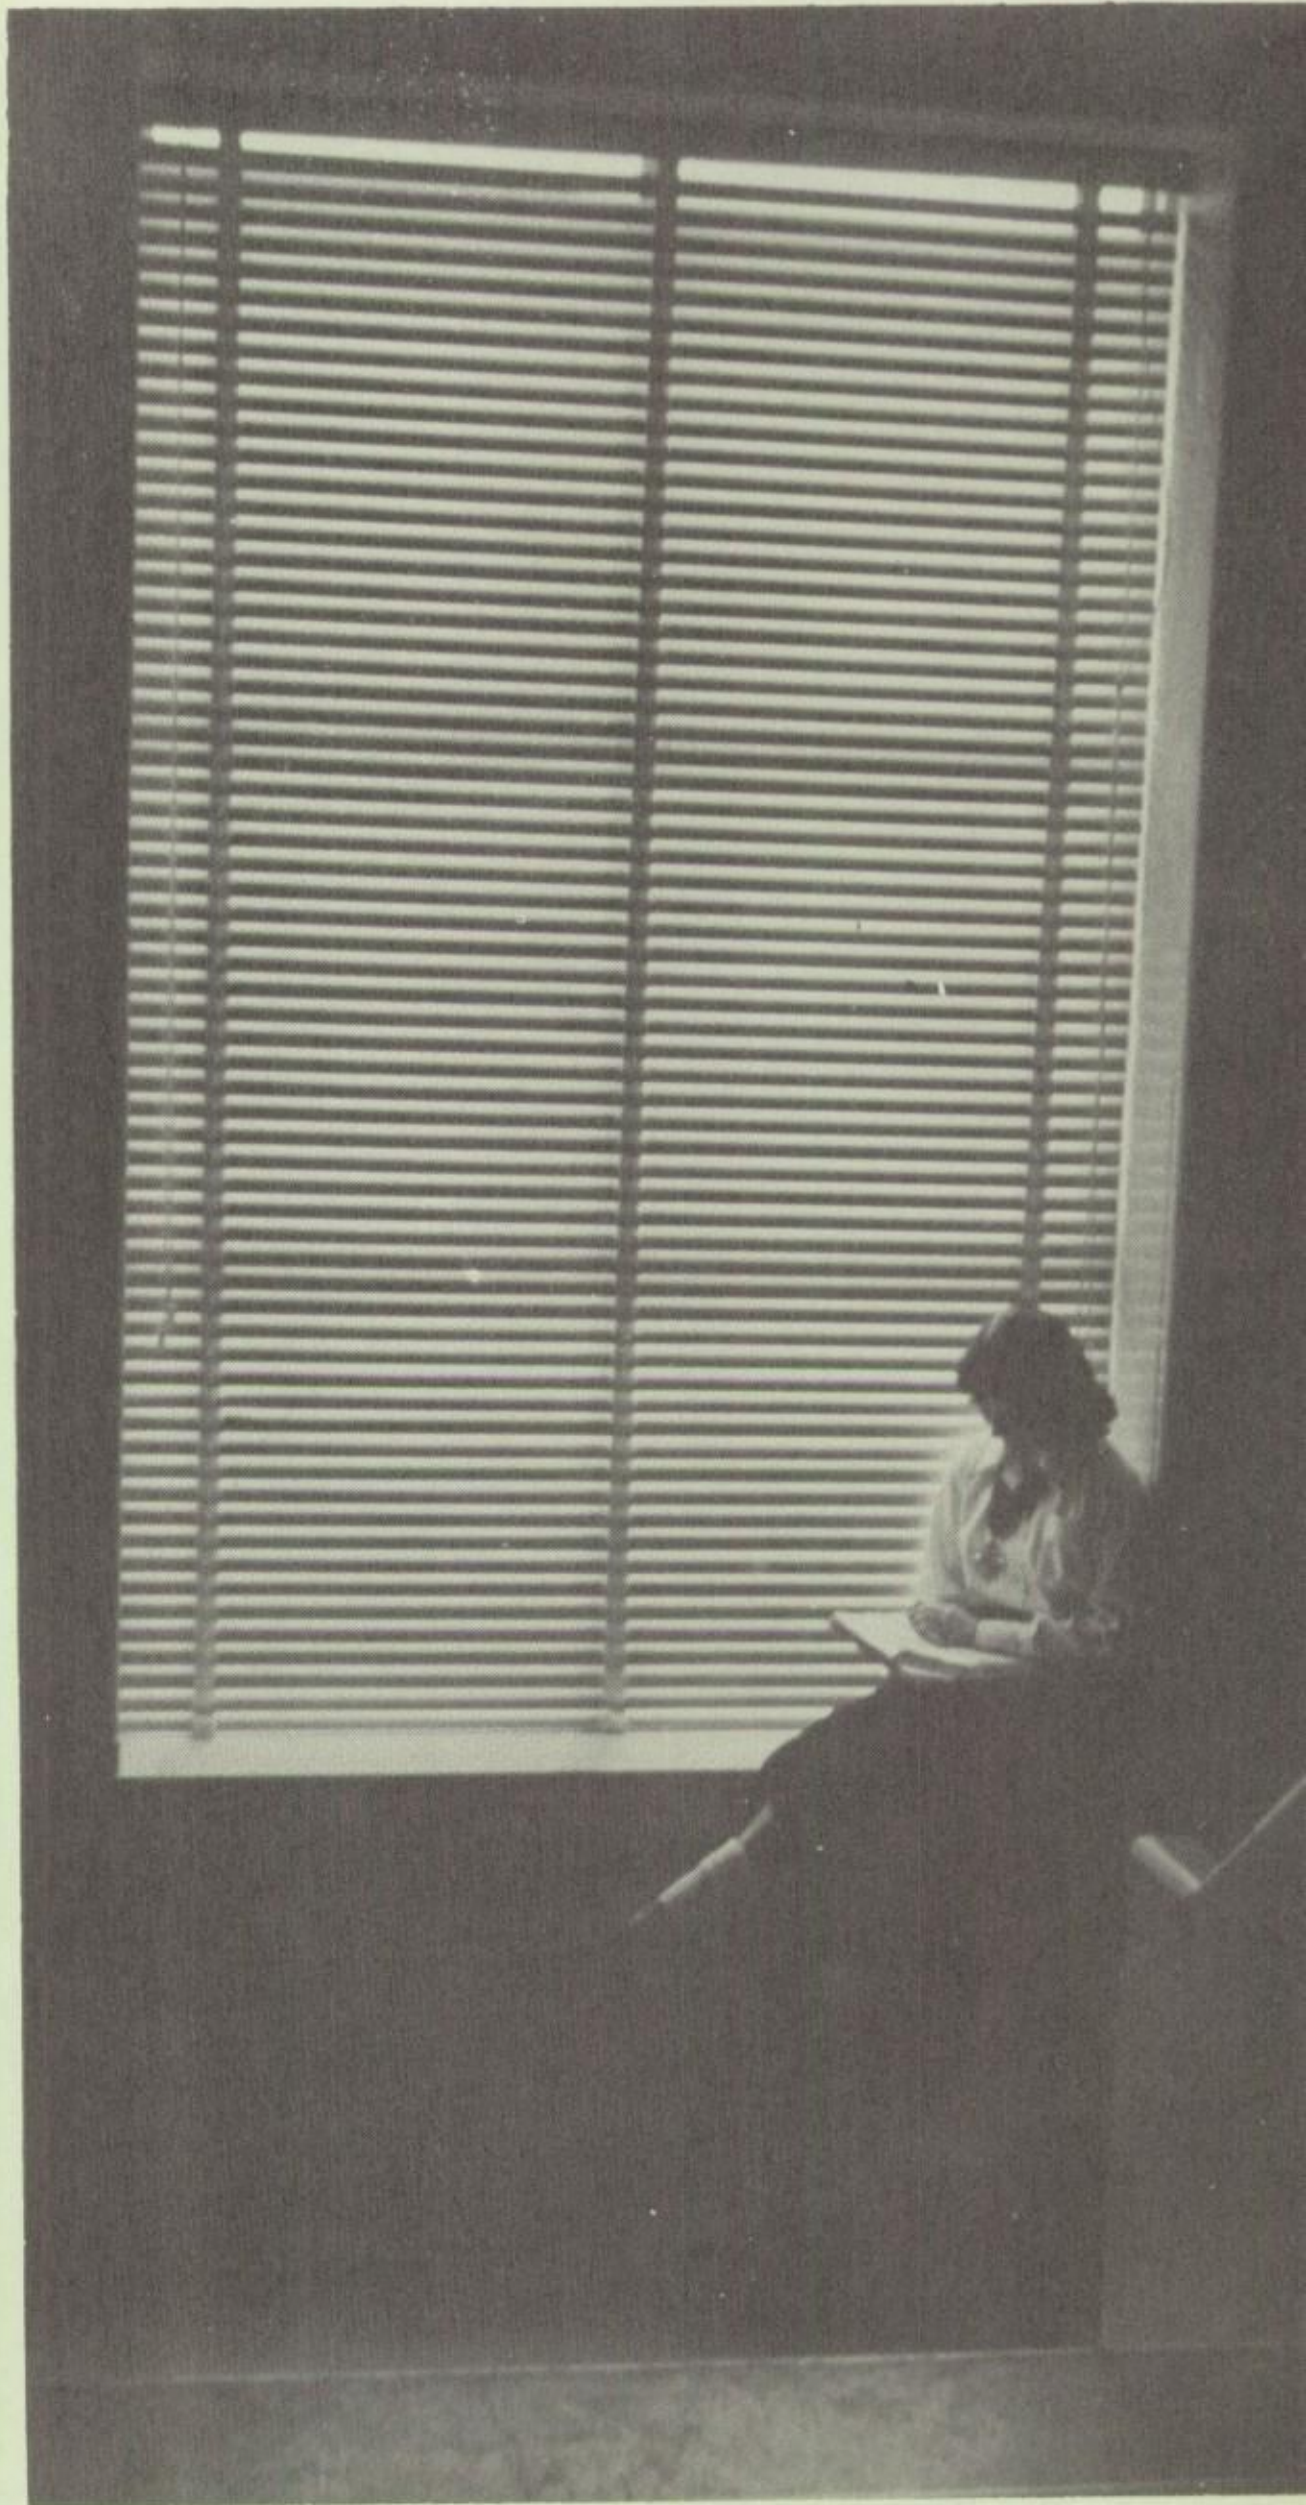

The ringing of the long-awaited 3:30 bell sends homeward-bound students scurrying to the bus dock to await arrival of faithful Number 13.

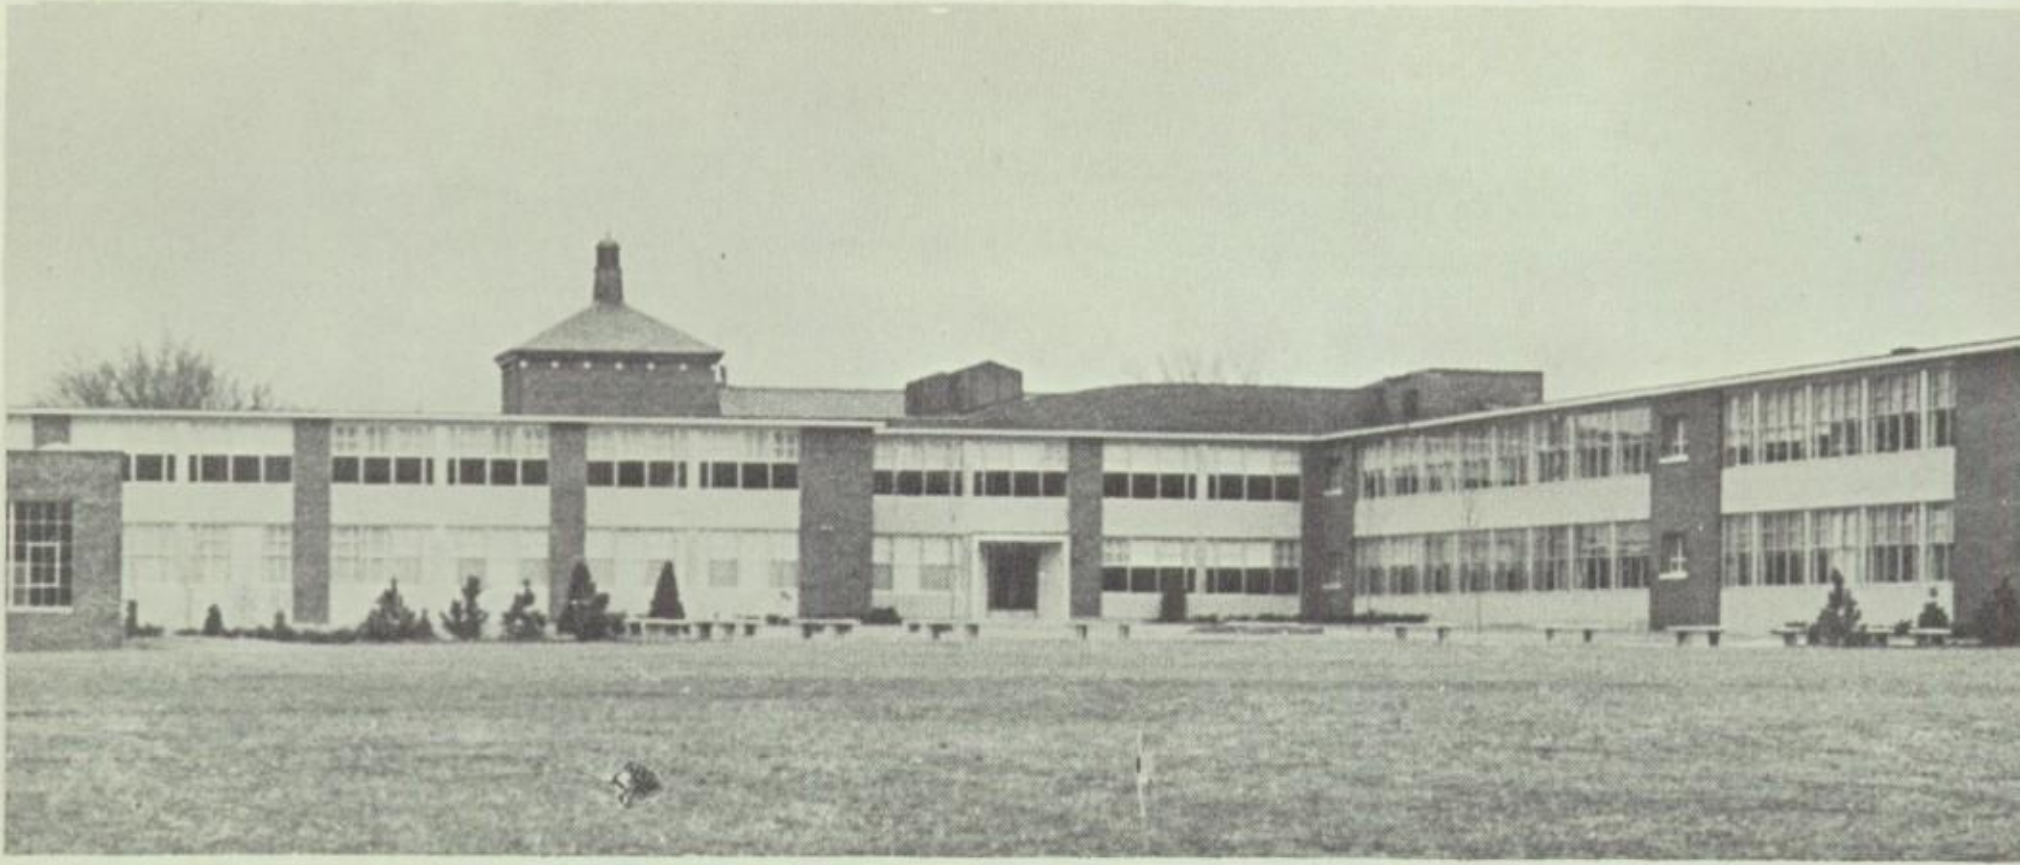

FACED with the problem of a steadily increasing student body, school administrators found the need for expanded quarters for Shawnee-Mission. Prompt action resulted in the extended facilities pictured within this section.

Mary Belle Brown concentrates in study hall.

A Venetian blind drawn just-so blends properly with the serenity of Jo Ann Benton.

Recreation and relaxation are supplied S-M students in this circle area. Momentary freedom from class routine brings friends together here.

Students who are changing second semester schedules find the efficient office staff and Mr. Welch are eager to aid any difficulties.

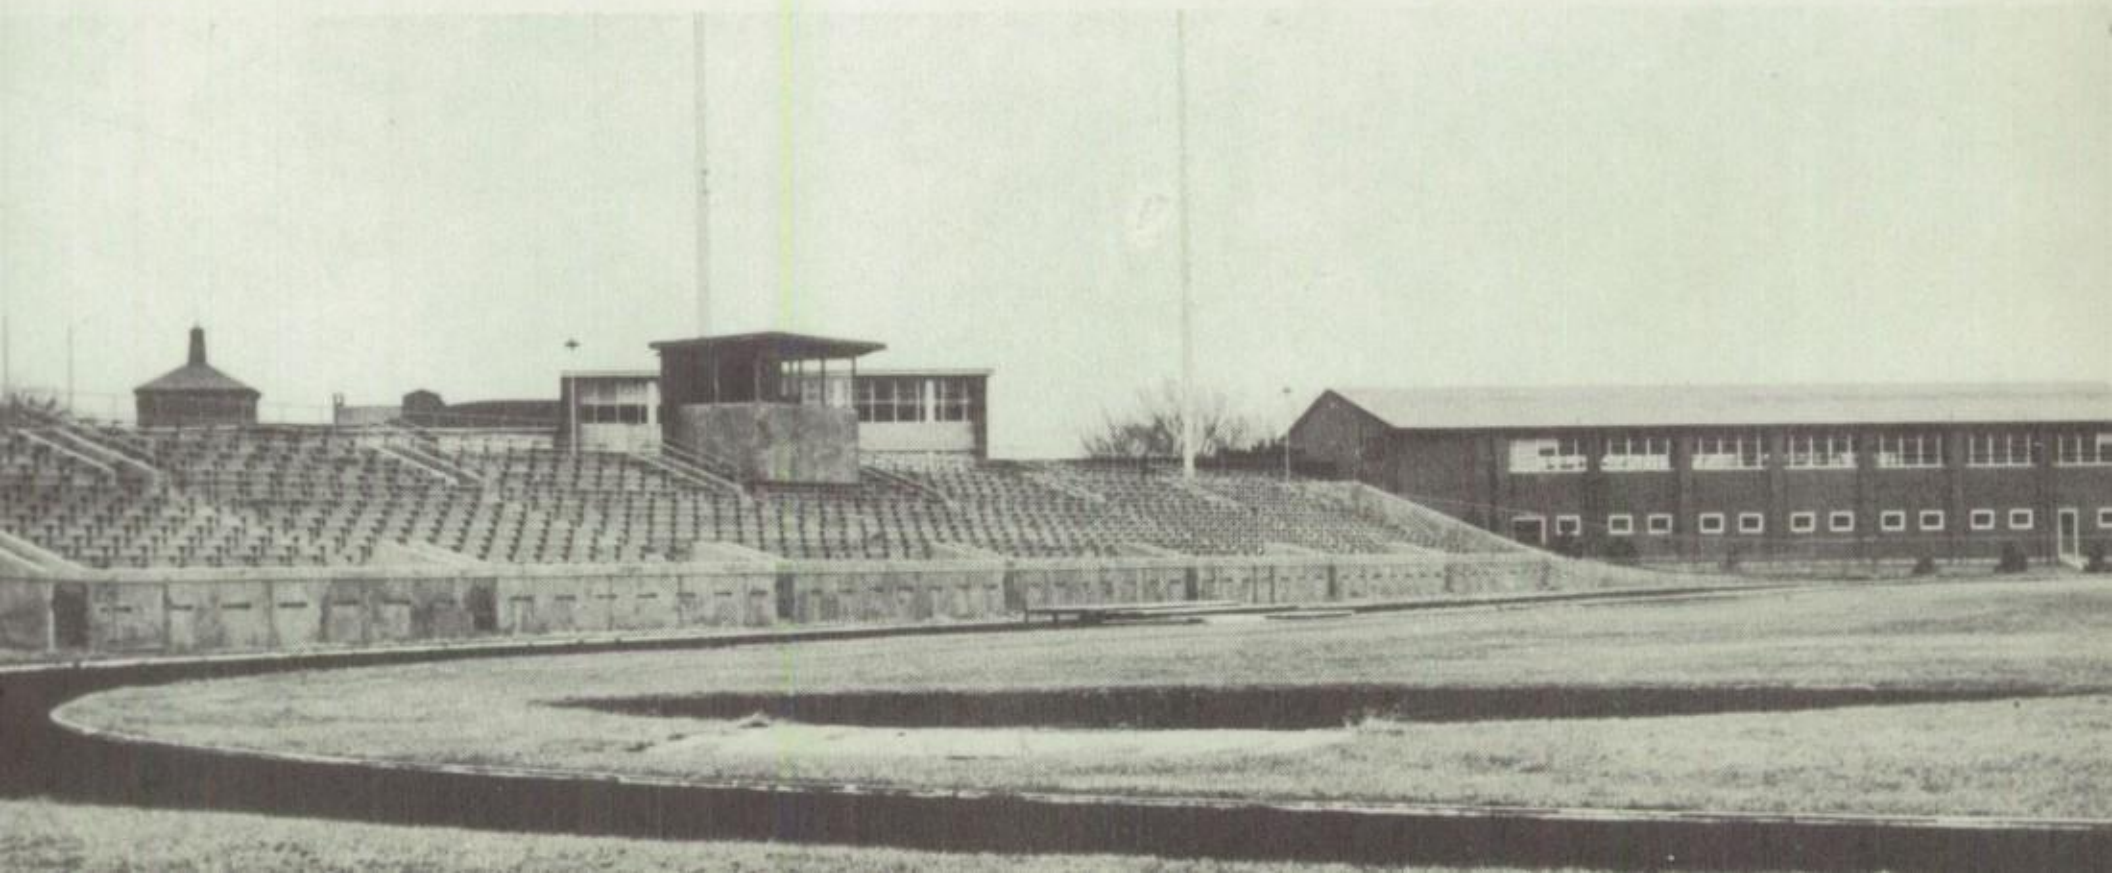

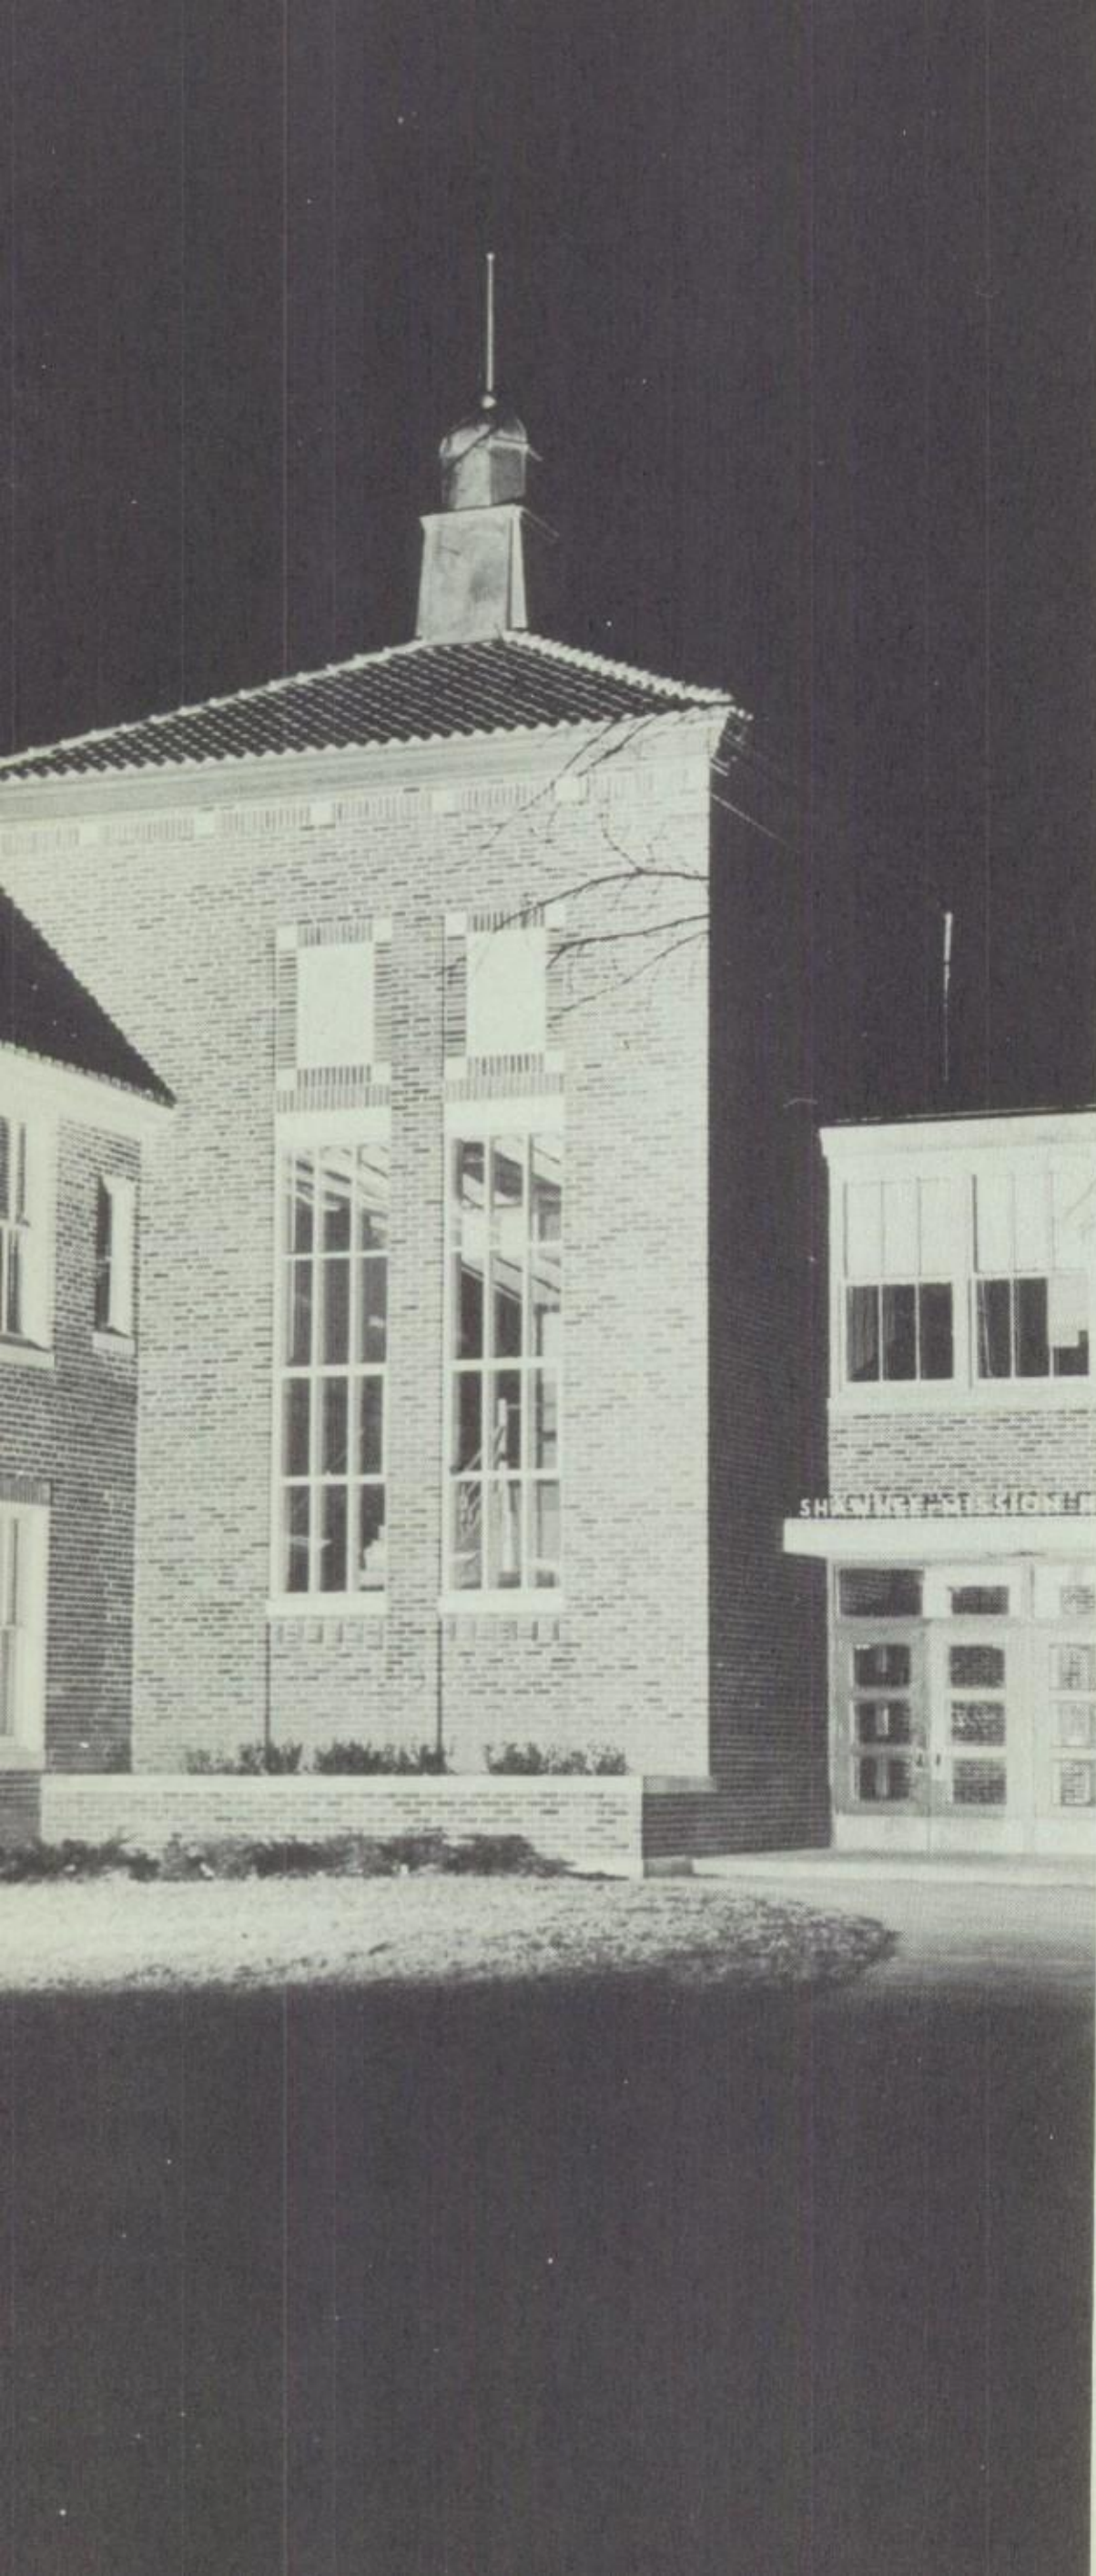

A pleasant library periodical room enables Jan Turton and Ken Meyer to relax and learn in quiet atmosphere.

HERE IS THE SCHOOL THAT WE WANTED . . .

Here is your stadium! This place where athletic contests, homecoming, and graduation are held is one that holds memories for S-M students.

FULFILLMENT

The workmen's tools are laid to rest,
The building stands complete;
At last the smell of paint is gone,
And fresh-mixed new concrete.
Around the halls the floor is laid.
Each window seems to gleam.
The doors are sanded down to size.
Masked is every beam.

Oh, it's fine to see the ending
Which we thought would never come
Of the ceaseless saws and hammers
And the grey brick walls so glum.
The clocks are in their places,
The desks in perfect rows,
And out upon the school grounds
The fresh sown grasses grow.

This is the school we wanted
For which we watched and prayed,
The fulfillment of our dreams
For this your taxes paid.
It stands serene and calm
Through rain and heat and cool;
This is Shawnee-Mission
Here it is, your school.

THE INN

Dear Joan -

I can't tell you how many times I've enjoyed your company. Your friendship has really meant a lot to me. I only wish I were as lucky as you in that you have another year at S-M. It's really a wonderful school, & I've had the time of my life. Give it all you can, and you won't be sorry. Good luck in all you do. I hope I see you lots this summer and, of course, again this fall.

Always,
Sandy Keller

Dear Joan,

It doesn't seem possible that I'm through with high school already. It's certainly been wonderful and if you have as much fun as I have in my senior year, then you'll live in paradise next year. Work hard and have fun and I predict you will be a top success. Joan, I've certainly enjoyed our friendship and I'll certainly miss you next year. Have a our school, yours and mine, blending the traditional with the progressive,

ready to face the complex problems of life.

Love,
Mary Lawrence

Dear Joan,

Something about problems seems in order, doesn't it. After all the fancy planning and xxing we have done, I consider myself a master planning champion. Let's just hope now that we aren't disappointed with our schemes. What is that saying about absence - makes the heart grow fonder? "At any rate maybe we'll get to do quite a bit of doubling next year - and I don't mean Bart."

Remember all our good times - forget the others. The balance is heavy for the first. In the second classification we have our common X boy friend (commonly known as mama's boy!) I guess by now you aren't so set on Baker - All here she comes. Have fun at Institute, collect another three or four boy friends (this is a little-needed idea.) Think about me in Europe and tell Paul to encourage his buddy to stay clear of females. You - included!

Love,

Joan -
I have really enjoyed the times we spent together. I hope you will meet some of our first summer
girls.

Dear Joan,

You're really a swell girl (goodness but that sounds trite doesn't it?) Your party is a lot of fun and it's swell of you to have it. You & Paul make a darling couple - Stay together & you better watch that xxing. You really do shock us little "Innocents." he he. Best of luck to a girl who really deserves it - always

Dear Joan,

I can't begin to tell you how much I've enjoyed knowing you. We really "cut up" in study hall this year, didn't we? It was really fun. You're really a darling girl, ~~Joan~~. Good luck always. See you this summer. I hope you succeed in everything you do. I'm sure you will because you're the kind of a girl that will always get to the top.

My dear Joan,

After I have read all the nice things other people have already written, it is a bit hard to find something new and original. I am sitting here at your wonderful party and try to think about you. I just see your picture of the automobile show and I must say, you looked most beautiful there, as you always do. I am very glad that I got to be friends with you and I hope we can still stay in contact, even when I am back in Germany, and maybe we even get a chance to see each other again. Till then I wish you lots of luck.

Alles Gute

Freddy Paslat. Claubergerstr. 14, Duisburg, Germany.

WE'LL REMEMBER 1951-1952 for a flood that set Washington minds considering the consequences of a flood-control program, a flood that hit home this time and showed us how it could destroy personal property, how it could wipe away business establishments, how it could take countless lives. We'll remember the Korean War, its casualty lists, its long drawn-out truce talks. We won't forget that universal military training became typical conversation for high school youths, nor will we disregard the findings of a certain publicized Senate investigating committee. In a much lighter tone, we'll continue to scoff and smile as we reminisce on a heated World Series, which the Yankees won—who else? We'll remember these national and world events and connect them with our high school years, wonderful years, years we'll be recalling when we say, "High school years? Why, sonny, those are the best years of your life!"

Dear Joanne,
 I can't tell you how much I have enjoyed having you for a friend. You're really swell, Joanne. You have lots of personality and a cute as a button. You can be as smart as a whip. You're about the perfect person to have at a picnic. Be good and always give me luck to you
 P.S. Your party is swell. Love
 Willie

Best wishes to a swell girl I've enjoyed knowing that not thru space and hope to know better next year. Be good
 this summer

Dear Joan,
 I've known you so long, and I love you more all the time. I thought of leaving pills me, but you're friends can still get together, even if you're a lovely girl, to get together, etc. We'll have more good times just stay on top.
 Be good and take care of those boyfriends!!! Remember me!
 Love,
 Joyce Tighe

Dear Joan,
 I have really enjoyed having you as a friend. You are so sweet. We have had some good times together.
 Remember, your party has been swell today. Lots of luck in everything.
 Love,
 Sally. Marmen
